Party Harmony Ephasized as Former Rivals Meet to Boost Candidate

HOOVER IS ATTACKED

Says President's Statement in Des Moines is Libel on Nation Credit

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Franklin D. Roosevelt prepared today for the supreme effort of his national campaign for the presidency and his final appeal to the American electorate, at a mass meeting in Madison Square Garden tonight.

The Democratic nominee went into the home stretch of the race with the apparent complete support of the man who was his chief rival for the nomination—Alfred E. Smith—who last night, arm in arm with him on a Brooklyn platform, re-emphasized party harmony and gave his principles full support.

In his speech, Governor Roosevelt attacked President Hoover for what he termed "misrepresentation and misquotation" of his declarations on the abolition of poverty.

The former candidate told his audience Mr. Hoover should have gone to the people at the beginning of his term, instead of "now making 14 speeches a day," to tell them of the state of national affairs.

Instead of that, he said, "it is a fact that the only news we had out of the White House for one solid year was a discussion as to where Dolly Gann was to sit when she entered a dining room."

Governor Roosevelt, opening his speech, declared that the "attempt of the President to spread the gospel of fear" was the most "reprehensible act of a campaign that has yielded many examples of unscrupulous appeals for votes."

The Governor declared his opponent's assertion at Des Moines that the nation narrowly avoided going off the gold standard was "a libel on the credit of the United States," and said no adequate answer had yet been made to the recent speech of Senator Carter Glass who, he asserted, had shown the unsoundness of the President's declaration.

Replying to Republican claims that the Democratic party favored inflation, Roosevelt said the party's platform specifically declared for sound currency at all hazards.

Regarding the tariff, Governor Roosevelt discussed the operation of the tariff commission in these words:

"During two years, President Hoover's tariff comission has investigated the duties upon only 73 commodities—73 out of many thousands. As a result, 18 schedules were reduced and 13 were increased and it is worth noting that among the articles investigated the commission has busied itself with complete investigation into pipe organs, peppers, egg plants and bicycle bells. It is worth noting, too, that a careful estimate shows that at the present magnificent rate of

NO MODIFICATION OF EMBARGO SEEN

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Collector of Customs Howard W. Seager reiterated today that no immediate modification will be made of the Washington order placing a virtual embargo upon tuna, salmon and electric light globes shipped here from Japan.

"Until the entire matter has been thoroughly investigated," Seager said, "there will be no modification of the order. Appraisals on these imports have been suspended, and if consignees wish to take out such products they will have to do so under an almost prohibitive bond."

Seager's statement was in response to the visits of hundreds of Japanese importers and brokers and a number of representatives of American firms who protested the drastic order.

PALO ALTO IN PREPARATIONS FOR PRESIDENT

House on Stanford Campus Being Put in Readiness for Visit

PALO ALTO, Calif., Nov. 5. —(INS) — Great preparations were underway here today for the return home of President Hoover.

At his residence on San Juan Hill overlooking the Stanford campus, servants, tradesmen, telephone men and members of the household bustled with activity putting the house in order for the homecoming.

Allan Hoover, second son of the president, was there, making ready for a visit of unknown length by a large party.

Herbert Hoover jr., elder son, was to arrive within a day or two from Pasadena, bringing his wife and their three children, Peggy Ann, Herbert III and Joan.

A large rambling pueblo, the Hoover home has been one of the show places of Palo Alto.

It was built by President Hoover 12 years ago, and was designed by a member of the faculty at Stanford university.

Trees and shrubbery in abundance surround the white building, while a well-landscaped sunken garden occupies the rear of the house. Local nurseries were busy today rushing a new supply of potted plants and shrubs to the house.

The Hoover home is not isolated, but is close to the mansion of Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, on leave as president of the university, and the home of Acting-President Robert E. Swain. Other faculty members have their homes close by. All of the houses on San Juan Hill overlook Stanford's "fraternity and sorority row."

Like many other Palo Alto homes, the house has a large roof garden filled with typical California plants and so situated as to insure the president and his family the greatest amount of privacy.

During the president's absence the house has been occupied by Mrs. Hoover's uncle, William Henry, and his ward, Mary Paul, Mrs.

AMNESTY GRANTED BY ITALY CABINET

ROME, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The cabinet approved today a decree of general amnesty for Italian political offenders.

The amnesty decree was proposed to the king by Premier Benito Mussolini. It was sent immediately after its approval by the cabinet to the king at his country residence, San Rossore, near Pisa, for approval and signature.

Police said the youths admitted the theft and experimentation with bomb making.

Two years to the day after citizens of six northern California counties voted a bond issue for the span which will link San Francisco with the vast territory to the north across the famous Golden Gate, directors of the bridge district awarded contracts totaling $12,794,954. This brought the total of contracts thus far let to $23,288,904.50.

CALLICOTTE MEETS MOONEY IN PRISON

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., Nov. 5.—(UP)—Warren K. Billings and Paul Callicotte met in the office of Warden Court Smith here today and each avowed he had never seen the other before in his life.

Billings listened intently to Callicotte's recital that in 1916 he had been hired to deliver a suitcase that he believes contained the bomb that exploded during the San Francisco Preparedness day parade killing 10 persons and injuring 40 others.

"I am certain this man's story is true," Billings commented. "It offers the most logical explanation in my mind of the presence of the suitcase that contained the bomb. Whether I shall use his story to support my own plea for executive clemency will have to be decided later."

POLICE FEAR MAN IS SLAIN: BODY MISSING

Finding of Bloody Pools and Disappearance of Mexican Baffles

WAS THERE ANOTHER mysterious murder committed in Santa Ana within the past week, probably last Monday night?

While police officers sought vainly for some clue which would lead to the untangling of the Manus Gantman murder, 10 days ago, they admitted today that another man may have been killed in cold blood.

And as they probe deeper and deeper into the circumstances surrounding the finding of several pools of blood, human hair and a broken bottle, covered with blood, on Halliday street in Delhi where the Pacific Electric railroad tracks cross the street, the more convinced they are that a man was killed there.

With the investigation under way, Chief of Police F. W. Howard announced today that Francisco Mendoza, 32, Delhi resident was missing. That he had been missing since last Monday night, the same night that the blood was spilled on the street.

Late yesterday police arrested one Jesus Pina, 22, of Stanton, and are holding him in jail "on suspicion of a felony." At the police station he is booked "in connection with the disappearance of Francisco Mendoza."

If Mendoza was killed, his body has not been found, but there are circumstances connected with the case which make police believe there are grounds for the suspicions of foul play.

Mendoza was living with a woman named Slyvia Delcy. She for-

SEN. HIRAM JHNSON ATTACKS PRESIDENT

CHICAGO, Nov. 5.—(UP)—President Hoover's description of the saving of General Charles G. Dawes' bank through an R. F. C. loan was characterized "a very moving bedtime story" by Sen. Hiram Johnson of California in a campaign speech in behalf of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt here last night.

Johnson said he wondered "why President Hoover waited until the Friday before election to tell of his saving the thousands of depositors."

The insurgent Republican senator urged election of Gov. Roosevelt not as a Democrat but because "he's just an American." He attacked Mr. Hoover's farm relief, unemployment, power, foreign securities, international debt, R. F. C., prohibition and bonus army policies.

Candidates Give Talks At Meeting

Edward Trefz, G. O. P. Committeeman Attacks Roosevelt and Party

SCORING THE Democratic party for failures in past administration and declaring that the greatest trouble with the Democratic party is that it does not understand its great men, Edward F. Trefz, Republican committeeman and former secretary of the United States Chamber of Commerce spoke here last night at an old time political rally.

The rally held at the high school was under the auspices of the Young Men's Republican club and was preceded by a torch light parade. William Iverson opened the meeting at the high school and introduced Homer Chaney, president of the Young Men's Republican club. Chaney in turn introduced Judge F. D. Drumm, who presided as toastmaster.

Preceding the principal address James B. Utt, candidate for assemblyman from the Seventy-fourth district, and Senator N. T. Edwards, candidate for re-election, were introduced and spoke briefly. It was announced that Tallant Tubbs, Republican candidate for United States senator, who was expected to be one of the speakers, could not be present.

In announcing Tubbs' inability to be present it was said that he had been expected in Santa Ana until 4 p. m. when word was received from San Bernardino where he had filled a speaking engagement that, because of circumstances beyond his control, it had been necessary to put him on a train for San Francisco.

Criticising the Democratic party for its campaign of what he termed calumny and failures to solve national problems Trefz declared:

"Never in the history of the Democratic party has the paucity of leadership been so demonstrated as this year. The party does

BELLE BENNETT PASSES AWAY DURING NIGHT

Famous Motion Actress Noted for Portrayal of Mother Roles

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Belle Bennett, who reached the pinnacle of motion picture fame by her portrayal of mother roles, is dead.

She died last night, the victim of a long fight against a combination of ailments.

Although death had been anticipated for several weeks, it occurred suddenly at 9:15 p. m., according to her attending physician, Dr. Leon Tiber. She had been harassed by illness two years and in September she was brought back here from New York to die.

Funeral arrangements were incomplete and in charge of her husband, Fred Windemere, New York.

Mother love and an insatiable ambition united to bring this veteran character actress the fullest measure of success on the screen. Her greatest role was in "Stella Dallas," a performance so brilliant that henceforth she became the "perfect screen mother" to thousands of followers, few knew to what extent she carried this role into private life and sometimes fought it against the desire of achieving fame.

PRESIDENT SPEAKS IN WISCONSIN

Tells Cheering Throng to Return Republicans to Power on Tuesday Next

IN ST. PAUL TONIGHT

Completes Arrangements to Speak Monday in Salt Lake and at Elko, Nev.

UNIVERSITY FIELDHOUSE, MADISON, Wis., Nov. 5.—(UP)—President Hoover told a cheering throng packing this structure today that the Republican party should be returned to power to permit the continuation of its traditional American policies.

Hoover will deliver a major campaign address in the Mormon tabernacle at Salt Lake City Monday enroute on his final campaign tour which will end at his Palo Alto, Calif., home Tuesday.

The announcement came today as the president brought the whirlwind finish of his re-election drive into the agricultural northwest after dramatically picturing his fight against economic depression in an address at St. Louis.

The plans for the campaign to the Pacific coast were completed as the president entered his second day of intensive stumping in the midwest farm belt.

The Salt Lake City speech was scheduled on a stop between noon and 1:30 p. m. (mountain time) Monday.

The president's route, as had been forecast by the United Press, will take him from St. Paul, Minn., tonight to Omaha, Neb., Sunday morning. His special train then proceeds to Denver, Colo., for a 30 minute stop at 8 p. m. Sunday, leaving at 8:30 p. m. for Salt Lake City. The itinerary calls for 24 scheduled stops between St. Paul and Palo Alto where he will arrive at 1:15 p. m. (PST) Tuesday.

SEVEN BITTEN BY DOG IN HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Health authorities were making a rabies examination today of a huge police dog that ran wild in the Hollywood and Wilshire districts late yesterday and attacked six men and a woman before it was killed.

The victims were treated in Hollywood receiving hospital for bites on their arms and legs.

A police volley killed the animal after it had attacked its seventh victim, Mrs. Gertrude Green, 46.

Will Rogers Says—

CLAREMORE, Okla., Nov. 5.—(To the Editor of The Register:) This is a hot campaign. Tempers been lost. Gentlemanly conduct is a lost art, but let's just stop and study a minute, and give the rascals the benefit of the doubt. The Republicans have been in since 1920. Twelve years, and you would fight, too, if you was in their places. For it's been their hereditary training since childhood that the Republican party shall rule. Now take the old Democrat, he is fighting, for he is in sight of the first square meal he has had in twelve years. So we mustn't be too critical. Neither one of 'em is going to save us. Neither one is going to ruin us. Should Mr. Hoover lose, I don't think there is a person that wouldn't feel downright sorry for him, for he certainly has meant well and did all he could. And I expect it won't be long till we will be feeling just as sorry for Roosevelt. This President business is a pretty thankless job. Washington or Lincoln either one didn't get a statue till everybody was sure they was dead. I'll bet you that even Cal Coolidge, who retired at the "peak," wouldn't tell you that the worry didn't more than offset the glory. So it's going to be mighty hard next Wednesday after it's over to tell which one to congratulate. If this depression stays with us the loser Tuesday is going to be the winner.

Yours,

WILL ROGERS.

berly lived at Stanton with her mother, but for several months has been living at Delhi with Mendoza.

Police charge that since the blood was found, the Delcy woman moved back to Stanton taking with her Jesus Pina. In the Stanton house all the belongings of Mendoza were found, police said. These included little articles such as a man carries in his pockets. A bill fold, letters, drivers' license, and such little articles as that.

Mendoza had black curly hair. The hair found at the bloody corner was black and curly. The Delcy woman cannot explain where Mendoza is at the present time. Mendoza had money coming to him from his employer, a Japanese. He had made no claim for it.

And so the investigation goes on. There is no corpse to substantiate a murder charge, but police believe they have a motive, in the woman, which is more than they have in the Gantman case.

Officers also found where a heavy object which could have been a body had been dragged from the spot where the blood was found.

In the meantime efforts are being made to get Pina to talk, but he knows nothing about Mendoza, he says.

not understand its great men. This year they had the opportunity to nominate Owen D. Young, a great man, but they fumbled the ball and nominated a seventh rater."

Flays Hearst

Roosevelt, he branded as the man whose name is his own and yet not his own. He charged that Roosevelt has defamed the name made famous in history by his cousin Theodore Roosevelt, to William Randolph Hearst, whom he described as "the most brilliant and depraved newspaper publisher in the world"; he has loaned his name, he said, to Tammany, Garner, McAdoo and Al Smith. He also accused the Democratic candidate of loaning his name to a company organized after the war for the sale of German marks, a venture in which many financial losses were sustained. Later, Trefz said, Roosevelt loaned his name as a member of the board of directors of a company formed for the operation of slot machines.

Trefz declared that the present economic depression did not start in 1929. He declared that it started during the administration of Woodrow Wilson and was only averted in 1917 by declaration of war. Referring to the war the speaker said "Beware of Democrats when they make promises. In 1916 they promised that Woodrow Wilson would keep us out of war. Did he keep us out?"

Declaring that he was not attacking a dead man as "a president of the United States never dies. He lives in history," he attacked Wilson and his administration, particularly during the war. He said that Wilson was the only dictator that American has ever had. He was made dictator through war time legislation that made him the head of every branch of agriculture and industry.

Start of Depression

Averted by the declaration of war in 1917 Trefz declared that Wilson's trip to Europe to participate in peace conferences marked the fresh start of the depression that has held the nation for the past three years.

"What business did an American president have monkeying with politics of the world?" There is where the depression started," he said.

The depresison started, he declared at the time eight European nations were divided to make 22 nations each with its financial problems and no cash and succeeding revolutions that shook the entire world.

Skipping the Harding and Coolidge administrations Trefz referred to the election of Hoover in 1928 when business started to boom, installment buying started and practically everyone was dabbling in the stock market.

"Then came the market debacle," he said, "at that time the governor of New York state, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was the only person who could have stopped the debacle. We had a civil war over states' rights at one time. The federal government was powerless to act in that emergency. Hoover did act to the limit of his power in having discount rates so increased that brokers could not borrow money with which to carry the accounts of their customers.

Hoover Warning

"Hoover also sent a warning at that time to the United States senate that foreign loans being carried by the nation were without adequate securities to justify them."

Speaking of the depression Trefz outlined relief measures started by Hoover in an attempt to end the economic crisis and to prevent the suffering and despair that had settled down upon the people without work and who had lost their all. He told of the operation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation that has saved 70,000,000 people from starvation. He told of Hoover's conferences with employers and workers in an effort to prevent additional unemployment and lowered wages.

Attacking the Democratic program he asked "Is there an orange or walnut tree in California that has ever paid under the Democratic tariff program?" He charged the Democrats with opposing tariff because they do not know what to do with it.

Returning to the depression Trefz declared that while the turmoil was going on the Democrats had no program for relief and were forced to adopt the Republican plan. "At that time," he said, "Johnson and Borah were on the senate floor and there was no law to prevent them or anyone else offering a plan for relief."

Local Situation

Trefz preceded his talk with an attack on B. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for congress from this district, because of his stand in favor of high tariff for citrus, other agricultural products, and oil. McKinney has pledged himself if elected to fight for high protective tariff on all citrus and farm products as well as oil.

Sam L. Collins, arrived as the meeting was nearing a close, having flown from Redlands where he had filled a speaking engagement. Collins spoke briefly and replied to alleged attacks against him in Riverside and San Bernardino counties. These attacks published in all the papers of the two counties mentioned were denied by Collins.

The attack was in the form of an advertisement reproducing one of Collins primary campaign advertisements published in Orange county papers in which it advised the voters that he would do things and get things for his county.

He also denied that he is opposed to veteran legislation. He denied that he is unfriendly to the veteran. He declared that he has advocated economy but not at the expense of the veteran. He declared that as a veteran he knows the needs of the veteran. As a farmer, he said that he also knows the needs of the farmer and the taxpayer.

SAN CLEMENTE TO ASK REBATE ON SCHOOL TAX

Representatives of the San Clemente school board and city council will appear before the board of supervisors Wednesday and ask for the cancellatnon of a portion of the city's school tax which has been termed erroneous.

This action was determined on yetserday following a conference with Deputy District Attorney W. F. Menton and attended by Edward Bartlett, president of the San Clemente school board; Mayor Thomas Murphine, and Robert Plume and H. H. Cotton, members of the city council. Cancellation of the alleged erroneous tax will be sought under Section 3804 A of the political code.

The protest was first made when tax bills were received showing the city tax had leaped from $1.41 last year, to $2.15 this year. Investigation revealed that in preparing the school budget inclusion in the anticipated income of $12,950 received through a bond issue provided for the building fund had ben neglected and 72 cents added for the building fund.

The law provides that the board of supervisors, upon request, may set aside erroneous taxes.

Born in Milaca, Minn., her theatrical career began almost from the cradle. Her father ran a tent show and amid these surroundings she was reared. After a brief education in the Sacred Heart convent, in Minneapolis, she assumed the nomadic life of a tent show trouper. A turn in stock companies followed, where she laid the foundation for her subsequent career in motion pictures.

The spirit of mother love was ingrained in the private life of Belle Bennett. It was generally believed she married at the age of 13 and became a mother at 14. The child died in infancy. Her second child was a son, William Jr., from whose father, a La Crosse, Wis., man she was divorced in 1924 after a separation of 12 years. Later she married Fred Windemere, New York actor.

Belle Bennett lavished a mother's devotion on "Billy" in private life but in public, she represented him as her brother. She later reproached herself, asserting it was because of a selfish ambition to further her screen career by posing as a younger woman. She secured the role of "Stella Dallas," over 73 other actresses, none knowing she had a son.

Only a few days before she rehearsed her biggest scene in this picture, Billy was fatally injured. Stricken by remorse for what she thought was betrayal of maternal love for selfish ambition, the actress flung herself across the deathbed and sobbed:

"I was an actress before I was a mother."

On the day after the funeral, she insisted on returning to the studio to portray the role of a mother who sacrifices everything for her son.

With Billy's death, she centered her affection on children of other parentage. She shortly adopted a son, Teddy, now 22. Later she adopted others—29 in all, her employers say—children of poor relations in the middlewest. Her generosity also was felt by many movie "extras" in the form of financial assistance and "breaks" which later led to their success in the films.

After "Stella Dallas," Miss Bennett attained success in many other pictures, including "Wild Geese," "Mother Machree," "Reckless Lady," "The Iron Mask," "Molly and Me" and "Queen of the Burlesque."

TARIFF NEED FOR PRODUCTS HERE IS TOLD

Portraying clearly and forcefully what the tariff means to the fruit industries of Orange county, Lieutenant-Governor Frank Merriam, of Long Beach, yesterday joined the Orange county campaigners for Hoover. The lieutenant-governor was the speaker at a meeting of employes of the Central Lemon Growers association at Villa Park and Golden West Citrus association at Tustin, at the Central Packing house Friday noon of this week.

"With this county's prosperity founded upon the citrus industry, the walnut industry, the pepper, the sugar and other industries," said Merriam, "Orange county certainly is more vitally concerned in the outcome of the election next Tuesday than is any other county in California. You as workers and the growers are interested in the same thing. Your cause is theirs, and theirs is yours."

Merriam is scheduled to talk to packing house workers at Orange today.

ed today for the nation's executive in a trip that cut across the corner of Illinois and through the heart of Wisconsin to Minnesota.

The principal speech of the day was arranged for Madison, Wis., with a major address at St. Paul, Minn., tonight.

At St. Paul, an old-fashioned torch light parade was to welcome the president. Mr. Hoover will speak at the St. Paul auditorium at 9:30 p. m.

The president's St. Louis address, delivered to an audience of 10,000 in the coliseum where Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt spoke last month, stressed his fight against depressing economic influences and reiterated his stand on the prohibition issue. He attacked the Democratic repeal plank which he described as "evasive" since southern members of the party would not agree to outright repeal of the 18th amendment.

"Democratic sponsors of outright repeal," said Mr. Hoover in the one time center of the brewing industry, "know that their own strongholds in the south will not accept the proposal for outright repeal and consequent return of the saloon and resultant lack of protection to dry states."

It was Mr. Hoover's first mention of the prohibition issue in an address since his acceptance speech.

He attacked what he called Democratic attempt to blame Republican policies for the depression and charged his Democratic opponent was closing his campaign without declaring himself on many issues.

He charged Gov. Roosevelt with failure to explain how his farm relief program would be carried out, asked what Roosevelt proposed to do about the soldiers' bonus, what explicit government economies he would recommend and "whether he will support Messrs. Wheeler, Norris, Hueyit, W. R. Hearst and others in their long continued efforts to put government into large business undertakings?" He declared Roosevelt had been silent on the questions of currency expansion and tariff changes he would propose.

Mr. Hoover declared more than a million unemployed had gone back to work since congressional adjournment removed the "malign influence" of the Democratic house of representatives.

He pictured two specific examples of the fight made by his administration against worldwide depression. One was an intimate glimpse of the behind-the-scenes negotiations to save Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., of Chicago from failure. The other was the consultations leading to declaration of the German moratorium.

The dramatic story of circumstances leading up to the granting of an $80,000,000 loan by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to the Central Republic Bank & Trust Co., Chicago's "Dawes" bank was told in detail by the president.

He declared the bank had ample securities to pay out depositors in normal times. There were 122,000 depositors, most of them small home owners and working pepole. There were also 17,000 commercial depositors including 755 country banks, indicating failure of the bank would spread the crisis throughout the city and country.

"The farmer in one state and the widow in another," said the President, "even though they did not know it, had a direct financial stake in the fate of this city bank. These 755 depositing banks had 6,500,000 depositors scattered over 15 states and these 755 banks had 21,000 depositing banks with more than 20,000,000 depositors."

The President discussed the campaign attacks made on this loan. He said General Dawes agreed to the R. F. C. loan only on insistence of the two Democratic members of the board and of "a leading Democratic banker of Chicago who was then mentioned as a candidate for the presidency" and of other leading Democratic figures acting "not because they were loyal citizens of the United States."

Bourbons Put Stickers On G.O.P. Cars

When Republicans left the high school auditorium last night where they had been attending a political rally and approached their automobiles, they received a rude shock.

While Edward F. Trefz, Republican committeeman and orator was delivering the final word to Republicans of Orange county, in the high school auditorium, someone with Democratic leanings had been busy on the outside. Every automobile parked around the high school bore red and white stickers bearing the legend "Roosevelt-Garner."

Were the Republicans' faces red?

progress President Hoover's tariff commission will complete its examination of schedules and report on them by the year 2005."

Former Governor Smith also attacked the problem of "waste in government," and scored the "extravagance and waste and duplication" in government affairs. "But," he said, "Hoover himself, with the aid of a Republican congress, further bedeviled the situation by creating in four years, 35 new departments and boards."

"At Madison Square Garden," Smith continued, "the president made the extraordinary statement that if we did anything to the tariff, the churches, the schools and the hospitals would decay and grass would grow on the principal streets of our great city. So what do you think I did about it? I immediately made arrangements for a putting green."

Smith attacked the president's statement on his prohibition stand in subsequent parts of his speech.

LEGION POSTS SEEK UNIFORM CLOSING PLAN

In an effort to work out a uniform business closing plan before Armistice day of 1933, committees of each American Legion post of Orange county are to meet with their local chambers of commerce and merchants' associations to glean information as to the best plan to proceed, it was determined as a chief item of business at the meeting of 100 delegates of American Legion posts at county council last night at Fullerton American Legion hall.

Under Fred Dukes of Garden Grove, chairmen of the welfare committees of each post will work out a program for a county-wide barbecue for the unemployed, with each post selling tickets and working with its local welfare associations, as well as with the Orange county association. No date has been set for the barbecue, but when the plans are made, each post will sell tickets.

Reports showed that each post of the county plans to enter a marching unit, and many posts plan to enter floats and feature exhibits in the Armistice day parade next Friday at Fullerton.

National citations for community betterment were given by Herb Gray, commander of 21st district, to Garden Grave, Placentia, La Habra, Laguna Beach, Fullerton, Santa Ana, Orange and Anaheim.

No definite plans were made for the next Armistics day parade, but it was suggested the place may be Orange.

Glen Young, commander of the council, presided at the session. Preceding the business meeting, members of the auxiliary of the post served dinner.

INSTRUCTIONS TO BE GIVEN AT FINAL RALLY

A mass meeting of workers in support of the Wright law is to be held tomorrow evening at 8:15 o'clock, at the First Baptist church, for final instructions and inspiration, it was announced today by the Rev. C. D. Hicks, chairman of the Santa Ana Board of Strategy, which is in charge of the meeting.

Churches of the city have been requested to close their evening services in time to permit their people to get to the Baptist church at 8:15, and the invitation is issued to all men and women who are interested in saving the Wright law to be present for the mass meeting, which is scheduled to last for exactly 45 minutes ending at 9 o'clock.

The program will include several short, inspirational speeches by well known workers, who will give final explanations as to just what is involved in the repeal of the Wright law, just what are the rights and restrictions of workers at the polls, and just what must be done on Tuesday to win a victory for law observance.

Volnuteers are wanted, who will help with the work on Tuesday at the polls, making sure that every dry vote is cast, and that every voter understands just how to vote on Propositions No. 1 and 2.

The committee of the Board of Strategy will be on duty at the Y. M. C. A. building all day Monday, to assign workers to their positions and to furnish material and information as to the work to be done. It is the expectation that at least 300 men and women will be on duty throughout the day, in the interests of the Wright law, according to the statement by the Rev. Mr. Hicks. People who are willing to assist and who have not yet been assigned are requested to call at the Y. M. C. A. on Monday so that their services may be utilized.

MAKES ANSWER TO CRITICISM OF STATEMENT

Answering charges made in editorials appearing recently in the Fullerton News Tribune and the Orange News concerning its endorsement in the congressional race in which reference to C. C. Chapman was made, the Rev. Grover Ralston, of Garden Grove, secretary of the Orange County Strategy Board, today issued an answer.

Excerpts from the editorials to which Ralston refers in his statement follow:

From the Fullerton Tribune

"One of the reasons why prohibition has been losing ground appears in the action of the so-called Orange county "board of strategy" for the drys in repudiating the congressional candidacy of Sam Collins and endorsing that of his opponent, B. Z. McKinney.

"The endorsement of McKinney has little ground to stand on; but the repudiation of Collins has even less.

"There is not an unbiased, intelligent citizen of Orange county who will not say that Sam Collins as district attorney has shown unusual efficiency in enforcement of liquor laws, so far as the jurisdiction of his office reaches, and that he has cooperated ably and sincerely with all the forces of law and order. Nobody but the deliberately prejudiced or intentionally unfair can make any claim whatever of flaws in Collins' official dry record. Yet the reward of his excellent service in this respect is the endorsement of his opponent—an endorsement undoubtedly dictated by personal spites, personal political axe-grinding and ignorant fanaticism rather than real concern for the dry cause!

Claim Animus

"The animus behind this action of the so-called strategy board is revealed by the gratuitous and wholly unwarranted attack made upon Charles C. Chapman. The action of the board in going outside its purported function to drag in this personal assault upon one of the finest gentlemen in Orange county should in itself prove the character and the motive behind its endorsement of McKinney. No man in California has been more consistentyl devoted to the cause of prohibition than Mr. Chapman. No man has given more enthusiastically of his time and means to the dry cause. No man has set a finer example of personal loyalty to every form of civic decency and private rectitude. And yet a little coterie of politicians, actuated by motives known only to themselves, goes out of its way to strike at this venerated citizen over the shoulders of Sam Collins!"

From the Orange News

"The Rev. Mr. Ralston of Garden Grove, speaking apparently for the county board of strategy, sponsors an attack on Mr. Collins, Republican candidate for Congress, which is neither fair nor honorable.

"Mr. Ralston declares that Collins stands for repeal of the Eighteenth amendment.

Says No Basis

"Mr. Collins does nothing of the kind. There is not the slightest ground for the statement, a fact which Mr. Ralston should know.

"The character of the attack on Collins is clearly established by being coupled with a similar attack on Mr. C. C. Chapman of Fullerton.

"The dry cause cannot be advanced by misrepresentation either of individuals or of facts. Mr. Collins has stood staunchly for law enforcement during his term as district attorney. His service to the dry cause has been something more than lip-service. He deserves more credit than he has received from such gentlemen as Mr. Ralston."

Excerpts from Ralston's statement follow:

"On Wednesday, November 2, 1932, the Fullerton Tribune published a vicious attack on the Orange County Board of Strategy. The Orange News later attacked Rev. Ralston, secretary of the Board of Strategy. These editorials tried to make it appear that the Board of Strategy made an attack on C. C. Chapman, which is absolutely untrue.

"The board simply stated that while it felt Mr. Chapman was personally dry he hadn't hesitated to support wet candidates, having in the primary supported Senator Shortridge who voted for the beer bill, and is now supporting Senator Tubbs, who certainly cannot be classified as a dry.

"The principal reason for this statement by the board was the fact that Mr. Chapman has published statements in all the dry sections of the Nineteenth congressional district stating that he, Mr. Chapman, was a prominent dry leader and dry worker and that he whole-heartedly endorsed Mr. Sam L. Collins as a dry, without stating that he was the uncle, by marriage, of Mr. Collins.

"The Orange County Strategy board refused to endorse Mr. Collins although he satisfactorily answered all questions propounded to him by the representatives of the board. He claimed as he now claims to be personally and politically dry, but on investigation of his personal habits and his statements on the prohibition question in Riverside and San Bernardino counties we felt that he was not only out of sympathy in his personal actions, with the prohibition movement, but that his lieutenants in San Bernardino county are telling the people that he was standing for resubmission of the Eighteenth amendment, which we know to be the same as repeal. In fact, Mr. Collins has never stated at any time publicly or through the press that he was opposed to the resubmission plank in the Republican platform which he repeatedly declares he fully accepts."

The statement went on to reiterate the board's endorsement of Mr. McKinney and concluded by saying:

"The voters should not be fooled by such vicious attacks as made upon the dry forces by newspapers who are supporting not only Mr. Collins, but also Tallant Tubbs for United States Senator."

Vote Coupons In Carrier Contest Denote Activity

As vote coupons began pouring into the Register yesterday, on the Register Carrier Popularity contest, the contest department realized that the concerted power of 128 dynamic young men had really jumped into action.

The Register publishes in each issue, a 10 vote coupon which may be clipped by Register readers and voted in to the credit of any Register carrier.

Carriers who strive to please with their prompt and precise delivery are out requesting that their service receive recognition in the form of these 10 vote coupons. The evidence to date would indicate that many of these boys do please their customers. The desk of the circulation manager was deluged with letters speaking highly of this or that carrier, and piles of coupons which attested the appreciation of subscribers for courteous and faithful service.

A complete list of the carriers' standings to date will be published twice each week.

CITY LEADERS TO CONSIDER FACTORY MOVE

A second meeting of Santa Ana civic leaders to further consider the matter of bringing to Santa Ana a shoe manufacturing concern which is now operating in Los Angeles, has been called by officers of the chamber of commerce for Monday noon in Ketner's cafe, it was announced today.

Several prominent Santa Ana business men made an inspection of the Los Angeles shoe plant last Monday. They will make a report of their findings at the meeting Monday.

M. L. Housman and George Shanley, officers of the shoe company, will be present at the meeting as guests. The two industrialists will make brief talks.

With the utmost confidence in the future of Santa Ana, officers and directors are doing their utmost to put to beneficial use several manufacturing plants in the city which are not being used at the present time. These include the Standard American Glass, Ulmer Machinery, Gum Vending and the Santa Ana Woolen Mills.

Through cooperation, officials of the chamber believe, these plants can be opened and payrolls established in Santa Ana that will help stabilize local business conditions

RE-ITERATE CHARGES AT DEBATE HERE

Following the issuance of a pamphlet some time ago by J. A. Vye, of Fullerton, white in candidate for the state senate, attacking the record of Senator Nelson T. Edwards in the legislature and a statement answering these charges made by J. A. Beek, of Balboa, secretary of the senate, the two men debated the truthfulness of the statements made by both at the city hall here last night.

Harry Westover, Santa Ana attorney, introduced the two speakers, each of whom took 30 minutes in debate.

Beek re-iterated his statement recently published in various papers to the effect that a number of points Vye made in his phamplet contained gross inaccuracies and misleading statements. Vye came back to back up his charges by reading from the records of the assembly.

There were eight points in question. The first charged by Vye that Edwards voted to increase salaries of county officials. Beek said he did not. Vye declared that Orange county salaries were increased through a bill which Edwards voted for, the clerk receiving $500 more per year. The assessor, the district attorney and other officers getting more pay.

The second point made by Vye was that Edwards voted for Bill No. 933, which empowers the supervisors to levy a tax for advertising. He charged that Beek's retort to it did not concern the same bill but another. Beek declared that Vye's report that Edwards voted to empower the supervisors to levy a tax of $60,000 to $75,000 for advertising, was not true and that Edwards did not vote for that bill.

Beek's statement in answer to point No. 3, was that Edwards did not vote for a gambling bill. Vye returned with the answer that he did not state that Edwards did, but that he did say that Edwards voted for a bill "pertaining to gambling," an entirely different thing, according to Vye.

The fourth point concerned Edwards' alleged failure to do anything to eliminate useless and wasteful expenditures. Beek praised the senator, stating that he had voted against all measures designed to raise salaries of state employes. Vye declared that Edwards did vote to increase expense pointing to bill No. 683 which calls for the pensioning of state employes.

Beek declared in his original statement that Vye had charged Edwards with voting for exemption of bank taxes and declared it was not true. In defense, Vye retorted that Edwards voted for Senate Bill No. 325, to tax banks. "The senator voted 'yes' in this which seems strange, but it was found to be a bill defining exemptions from bank taxation.' As usual, the senator voted for the monied interests," he said.

Both Beek and Vye declared that Edwards voted for the state employees Pension act, but Beek declared that he was merely carrying out the "mandate" of the people as expressed at the polls in November, 1930. Vye took exception to the word "mandate," declaring the people did not rise up and tell Senator Edwards that he had to vote for that bill.

The liquor question crept into the debate when Beek said that Vye's circular implied that Edwards could not be trusted with dry legislation. He then pointed out that Edwards had voted against the repeal of the Wright act and against a bill directed at the repeal of the 18th amendment.

Vye declared that Edwards did not know whether he was wet or dry. He called attention that he was lined up for the Republican candidates which had "gone wet."

Both speakers admitted that Edwards voted for "the notorious Sharkey bill."

CIVIC LEAGUE ENDORSEMENT TO VAN WYK

Charles D. Van Wyk, candidate for supervisor, today received the endorsement of the Orange County Civic League, as "the one best fitted to carry out the objectives which the Civic League has espoused," according to a statement released from the Civic League office in the Ramona building.

No endorsement for other offices was made, it was announced, "because all other offices are partisan, and while important, have not the direct bearing upon local taxation as that of supervisor." League officials said taxpayers are realizing the necessity of electing a supervisor friendly to all efforts for economy in county affairs.

The League also recommended a "yes" vote on Propositions No. 10, 11 and 12.

The complete statement follows:

"It is important that local officials pledged to tax economy be elected at all times, so that all possible efforts be made to reduce the heavy burdens of city and county taxation upon real estate and personal property, where the greater portion of the tax burden lies.

Made Investigation

"Our endorsement committee, after investigating the qualifications and records of both candidates for supervisor of the first district, unanimously endorsed Chas. D. Van Wyk as the one best fitted to carry out the objectives which the Civic League has espoused, and recommend him to the favorable consideration of Santa Ana voters, on Tuesday.

"This recommendation is based upon Van Wyk's record of conservative management as a rancher and as director of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers association, coupled with his character, and his platform for economy, fair treatment for Santa Ana in the matter of gasoline tax funds, his stand for law enforcement and retention of the Wright act, and the endorsement of business and personal friends who have been associated closely with him over a period of years.

Independent Endorsement

"This is an independent endorsement, for Van Wyk has never been a member of the Civic League, and did not receive our endorsement in the primaries. He has never held public offic, and it is feit he will take to the supervisor position the attitude of the tax-paying, tax-saving public, rather than the tax-spending ideas of the experienced office holder. We believe Van Wyk to be free from any connection with the political group which has largely dominated county affairs, and that, being free and independent, he will be fair and just to all citizens.

"Van Wyk's opponent is a man of high character and unquestioned honesty, but was not endorsed because of his 16 years in office and the fact that he was always closely associated with the lavish money-spending crowd, notably in the matter of the large bond issue for dams proposed three years ago, the Santa Ana boulevard, the purchase of St. Ann's Inn, and his recent advocacy of higher Santa Ana city tax rates to provide more money for the chamber of commerce. The Civic League has consistently opposed unnecessary expenditures of public money, and favors at all times the election of new officials whose efforts will be directed toward reasonable economy, with efficiency. The new tax bills, just received, forcibly tell the necessity of such reductions.

Recommends No. 11

"Our committee also recommends a 'Yes' vote on Amendment No. 11 in fairness to the citizens of Huntington Beach, and as a measure which will increase employment and relieve some of the tax burden, thus aiding economic recovery and the return of prosperity. Inasmuch as all other coast cities have already been given control of their beach and tidelands by the state, to be used by them for the benefit of the public as they see fit, we feel Huntington Beach is entitled to the same rights. The measure was sponsored by the beach city council and endorsed by more than 1500 of the registered voters of that city. It is entitled: "Tideland Grant to the City of Huntington Beach" and does not affect any other point on the coast.

"We also recommend a 'Yes' vote on two other proposals of local interest, No. 10, affecting Escondido, and No. 12, affecting Glendale. We see no reason why these communities should not also be left free to solve their own problems without outside dictation."

Rankin's Spiking a False Rumor

Nov. 4, 1932

We, the employees of Rankin's, are being questioned regarding a current rumor that the management is enclosing notices in pay envelopes intimidating us to vote for a particular presidential candidate.

Such a rumor is false and infamous. No notices of any political nature have ever been enclosed in any pay envelope. The notices of political nature that have in the past appeared on our bulletin board have never been construed by us as coercion of our vote, or as interference with our free electoral privilege.

The management at this time has posted on the employee's bulletin board a notice assuring us of the right of free electoral choice; and that the opinions which have been expressed or posted are personal only and recommendatory only, as between citizens.

This document is the voluntary expression of the signers hereunder, secured upon the initiative of employees who want the facts to be publicly known.

FINAL WORD! on McKinney for Congress

Final Word to Drys—

Keep up the fight for the eighteenth amendment and its enforcement acts. Elect the candidate who was dry in all newspapers and all parts of the district at the start of the campaign, at the end of it, and during all the time between.

B. Z. McKinney is the champion of the dry cause, endorsed by Boards of Strategy for all counties and Southern California, and other dry organizations.

Final Word to Veterans—

Your compensation is at stake. The multimillionaires of the National Economy League would strip you and your families of support. Elect the candidate who declared himself publicly for your cause at the start of the campaign. Beware the candidate who first declared against you and now, at the last, has tried to appease your wrath by claiming to be for you.

B. Z. McKinney is the candidate who stood fast for you and finally forced his opponent to come to you.

Final Word to Farmers and Oil Workers—

Remember your tariff needs. Remember that Congress decides the tariff, no matter who is president. Remember the next Congress will be Democratic. For protection for citrus products and oil send a Democrat congressman to a Democratic Congress. A Republican would be helpless.

B. Z. McKINNEY STANDS FOR RETENTION OF PRESENT FARM TARIFF RATES AND HIGHER RATES IF NEEDED; DEMANDS 85 CENTS TO $1 TARIFF ON OIL.

Final Word to Opponent—

In concluding this campaign we wish to extend our congratulations to our splendid opponent for the campaign he has conducted. It was most gratifying when, two nights ago, he endorsed Mr. McKinney's platform, virtually plank by plank. We felt, all along, that Mr. McKinney was right in his stand for Prohibition, for revision of national banking laws, for the veterans, for federal economy and such issues, and we are glad his opponent, even this late in the campaign, finally has come to the same way of thinking, and has adopted Mr. McKinney's policies for his own.

HOWEVER, WE STILL FEEL THAT IT IS SAFEST TO CHOOSE THE CANDIDATE WHO HAS STOOD UNWAVERINGLY BY THESE POLICIES FROM THE FIRST TO THE FINISH—THE MAN WE CAN DEPEND UPON. THEREFORE AS VOTERS OF BOTH PARTIES WE URGE ELECTION OF—

B. Z. McKinney for Congress

LOYOLA LIONS CRUSH NEW MEXICO, 52 TO 0

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The Loyola university football team, showing a surprising reversal of form, crushed New Mexico university at Wrigley field last night, 52 to 0, before a crowd of 2000.

Avenging their defeat from San Francisco university last Sunday, the Lions rambled at will through the lighter and weaker Lobos. They scored two touchdowns in the first and second quarters, three in the third and finished the evening with a final rally in the last period.

MERCED—(UP)—After one attorney "cocked" another on the jaw in his court, Justice of the Peace James R. McHenry was presented with a new book of boxing rules by friends.

A Republican Vote for McAdoo

I am a Republican, but since political conditions are what they are, I am going to vote for William Gibbs McAdoo for United States Senator. I believe it to be for the best interests of the citrus and business interests of this state. I hope that you will consider carefully my reason for voting for this man, and if you agree with the logic of the argument I hope that you will be able to master whatever prejudices you may have and vote as I am going to vote.

Republican leaders acknowledge that our next Congress will be Democratic. The House of Representatives was Democratic last year. Five Republican Senators are up for re-election. The defeat of only one means that the Democrats will have a majority in the Senate, and it is very likely, according to the best reports, that several of these vacancies will be filled by Democrats.

The Literary Digest, after taking a nationwide poll of 3,500,000 votes, declares that Roosevelt will carry 41 states. It declares that he may carry 5 of the remaining seven states, and points out the fact that their poll shows that Massachusetts is for Hoover by a small majority. Their 1928 poll in this respect was the same, but Smith carried the state. The only states which at this time seem safe for Hoover are Maine and Vermont.

The Hearst newspaper poll which Columbia University of New York has found to be the most accurate in the past, shows Hoover hopelessly behind. Both of these polls have been more than 95 per cent accurate in their predictions.

With the country going Democratic, our question is what had we better do about our United States Senator?

Should we send a Democrat to join the party which by itself can pass legislation, or shall we send a Republican to antagonize a Democratic administration? To me there is only one answer: Vote for a Democrat.

California has the opportunity of sending one of the nation's leading Democrats to the United States Senate. She has the opportunity of sending a leader of the party in power. She has the opportunity of sending a man who will have great influence with Roosevelt because he took the leading part in nominating him. He more than any other man swung the Democratic convention to Roosevelt. He will have more power in the next administration than almost any other man in the United States aside from the President himself.

Opposed to him in this state are two candidates. The first of them is a rich young playboy searching the world for more to drink. Just wet, nothing more. No ability, no experience, no moral fibre.

His other opponent has no party affiliations. In the last session of Congress Shipstead, a lone wolf, exerted considerable influence because he held the balance of power, due to an even division between the Republicans and Democrats. In the next session the man without a party will just simply be an extra man. Just a case of no party, no power, no influence, and of no service to us in tariff and financial matters.

Mr. McAdoo favors a tariff on all farm products and on oil. We, the people of California, have the privilege of availing ourselves of the services of this outstanding Democrat. We have the privilege of sending a man to the United States Senate who when he rises to speak on behalf of the tariff, needed financial reforms, or any other economic questions, will command the respectful attention of the entire nation.

I believe no man will serve us better. To me this is a question not of party regularity, but a plain question of who can serve us best.

I hope I have convinced you that you should vote for McAdoo.

Respectfully yours,
LOYAL K. KING.

RADIO STRAW VOTE SWINGS TO PRESIDENT

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—Of 65 electoral votes cast by the Far-Western block of 11 states in the Presidential election Nov. 8, President Hoover will be given 48, is the forecast of final returns from a straw poll conducted by radio station KNX, Hollywood, during the last week in October. Complete tabulations were released today.

With more than 30,000 post card ballots received, a marked swing to the Republican ticket was reported, with the Hoover majority in Southern California reaching 58 per cent of the total. In a similar poll conducted by the radio station early last summer Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt was accorded a three-to-one lead. The latter continues to dominate sentiment in the northern half of the state, the latest straw poll figures indicate, although the Democratic vote totalled barely 52 per cent.

The radio poll, consisting of appreciable returns from 11 states, indicated that Hoover will carry California, with its 22 votes in the electoral college, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah and Colorado. These states claim a total of 48 electoral votes.

Although balloting in Nevada, Washington, New Mexico and Arizona was so close that a clear majority for either party was not apparent, Roosevelt maintained a lead in these sectors, reduced, however, in comparison with the station's previous poll. The four states command but 17 electoral votes combined.

-- News Behind the News --

WASHINGTON
By Paul Mallon

SOVIETS

The two most influential banking houses in New York are beginning to talk in private about the advisability of establishing trade relations with Russia.

One had some trouble with the Reds a long time ago. It has been mended. The other is the Wall Street show window for conservative capitalism. When these two change there is something in the wind. Their new views have been expressed freely in conversation by several of their officials. They probably will not announce themselves publicly.

One of President Hoover's many right hand men in the State Department recently gave a similar observation. He denied vigorously that he was anti-Russian although he had been labeled as such for many years.

Those close to Franklin Roosevelt assert that he has already taken quiet steps on this subject. He is well posted on the progress made by Germany in getting trade with the Soviets—and getting paid on time.

These underlying facts make it clear that the way is being made ready for Russian developments. The first step probably will be selection of a trade commission to go to Russia. It may be made up of private business men and lawyers interested in developing Russian trade. Recognition need not necessarily be a part of the preliminary negotiations.

Our steps toward a change of heart leave only Great Britain out of all the world not wooing the Russian market. German technical men and workers are steadily opening up opportunities in the U. S. S. R. The Germans are privately certain that the Soviets will not negotiate secretly with France and Japan. Disinterested parties are not so certain.

DE-PRESS

Mr. Hoover has almost completely divorced himself from the Washington press corps in the past six months. He has called off 48 press conferences in that time. Eight have been held, but none since September 13.

The White House news is handed out in the form of prepared statements.

$5,000.

Treasury Secretary Mills bet a friend $5 to $2.50 that Mr. Hoover's majority in Pennsylvania will be upwards of 500,000 votes. The friend goaded him into it by taunting him with figures from the Literary Digest poll. The story got into print generally, giving Mills a thousand times $5 worth of good Republican publicity.

DRYS

The Allied Forces continue to crowd the National Board of Strategy off the prohibition map. The Forces are getting all the dry money while the Strategists are existing on chicken feed. That bad inside dry situation may prevent a united front against the coming wet measures in Congress.

The Strategists collected exactly $105 from Sept. 1 to Oct. 25. They spent $1,888. There were no contributions above $10.

The Forces drew in $24,590 in the same period and spent $27,729. They are fighting in the Hoover cause while the Strategists are encamped on the fence—apparently poor strategy from a financial viewpoint.

WHEAT

The man who must bear the heaviest cross in this campaign in silence is Chairman Sanders of the Republican National Committee.

As former legal czar of the grain trade and milling interests, he shudders every time he reads in the papere: "Wheat today set a fresh all time low."

It was his former connections which partially induced the Republicans to give up all effort to boost wheat prices artificially during the campaign.

PROPHET

A prominent Republican Congressman from New York recently told friends:

"The Democrats do not know it yet but they are going to win New York. I think the odds there are about 2 to 1 against us. I believe it is impossible for us to win the country without New York state."

This is the same man who made a speech in New York state warning party workers against pessimism and predicting victory.

NOTES

The latest on Agriculture Secretary Hyde's abandonment of grain short trading restrictions is that he knew the drop was coming and tried to cushion it by encouraging short trading. . . . Reports of a deal are now denied. . . . The White House has not yet changed its insistence of six weeks ago that Mr. Hoover would make no more than four campaign speeches. . . . The Madison Square Garden address was his fifth major address. . . . Democrats are shaky about what the Republicans intend to do on the air between 8:30 and 11 p. m. the night before election over both networks. . . . Republicans refuse to tell. . . . The fact is that time has not been allotted by them and they do not know what they are going to do. . . . They had nothing in mind when they reserved the time except to keep any possible advantage.

TUNNEL

Mayor McKee's strong opposition to the Port Authority's application for a loan to build the 38th street tunnel—which is strictly speaking none of his business — has solid background.

When McKee took office he was urged by leaders in Brooklyn and Queens to apply for an R. F. C. loan to build the long waited Tri-Boro bridge. But the bankers told him this would snarl the city's tangled credit position still further and urged him not to do it if he wanted to save the city's finances. McKee soon after stated that he would not apply for the projected loan.

If the Port Authority plan goes through McKee will be on the spot. Borough politicians across the East River will want to know how come the city cannot get the construction gravy instead of having it go to the bankers' outfit sponsored by the states of New York and New Jersey. So he has to oppose the Port Authority—or get in very Dutch.

This whole argument is just one phase of the continuous row between the city and the Port Authority. There was a lot of subrosa sniping while the Washington bridge was underway. The city paid nothing for any part of that job but claimed to have lost a lot in taxes.

It is worth noting that Lieut. Governor Lehman sat in with the Port Authority on preliminary surveys for the tunnel. If elected his influence will be with the Port rather than the city.

The truce between the banks and the Board of Estimate on the City budget will not last long. Next year's budget is fixed and the banks don't like it. The banks will loan in driblets to tide things over for a few months but it looks like a showdown before next May. It also looks as if Tammany will retreat then.

City tax collections are due to fall far below estimates which won't help matters any. Most of the last tax crop was paid by mortgagees. They are getting very tired of the City Fathers' refusal to ease their burdens.

McKEE

Daniel Cohalan—member of the Curry board of strategy and personal friend of McKee—has worked out a neat scheme to get McKee out of the Mayorality picture before the 1933 election. He is urging that McKee be appointed U. S. Minister to the Irish Free State. McKee is a Scot but his religion would make him acceptable. Cohalan knows his Irish.

SMITH

The latest rumor on Smith—with better foundation than most—is that Copeland will resign as Senator after the election to get a vacation before taking a diplomatic post and that Roosevelt as governor will name Smith to fill his unexpired term. This would give the Democrats a strong floor leadership in the Senate where they will need it most.

RUMOR

A widely circulated report goes still farther and says that the Copeland resignation and Smith appointment will take place this month. The idea would be for Roosevelt to take up headquarters in Washington and work with Smith and Garner on Congressional policies during the short session. This could happen.

Young People to Hold Dry Rally Parade Tonight

Large groups of young people from many Orange county churches today had completed preparations for a big dry rally and parade which will be staged throughout the county tonight, according to Louis Vollmer, president of the Santa Ana Methodist church Epworth League.

Groups from the churches are to meet at Fullerton city park at 6:30 oclock this evening when a short "pep" talk is to be delivered by Dr. A. H. Briggs, state superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league.

A large caravan of cars was to travel through all cities in the county, carrying signs and banners asking support of the state Wright act and the national prohibition laws.

MR. HOOVER IN 1932

"The constitution gives the President no power or authority with respect to changes in the constitution itself."—

"It is my belief that, in order to remedy present evils, a change is necessary"—

"It is my conviction that the nature of this change * * * is that each state be given the right to deal with the problem as it may determine"—

"But subject to absolute guarantees in the constitution of the United States to protect each state from interference and invasion by its neighbors"—

"And that in no part of the United States shall there be a return of the saloon system with its inevitable political and social corruption and its organized interference with other states"—

"American STATESMANSHIP is capable of working out such a solution (the details of which Mr. Hoover did not offer) and of making it effective"—

(Mr. Hoover failed to get this one but his astute campaign managers put it in the Republican platform where they propose by the above means to "PRESERVE THE BENEFITS OF PROHIBITION.")

AL SMITH IN 1928

"The President does not make the laws. He does his best to execute them whether he likes them or not."

"I believe that there should be submitted to the people the question of some change in the 18th Amendment."

Edwards Road Bill
Saved Millions in Taxes

For years, Southern California paid the lion's share of state highway costs, while Northern California had the lion's share of the roads.

State Senator Nelson T. Edwards organized the movement for equalization of secondary state highways between the north and south, and established the principle that SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA SHALL HAVE AS MANY MILES OF SECONDARY STATE HIGHWAY IN THE STATE SYSTEM AS NORTHERN CALIFORNIA.

The Edwards road bill added six hundred miles of Southern California roads to the state highway system, including the Santa Ana Canyon road and other Orange county highways.

Hereafter, the maintenance and repair of these new state roads will be provided by the state highway commission out of the state gasoline tax, and over a period of years will save millions of dollars in local property taxes to taxpayers of Southern California.

All Orange county taxpayers will participate in this great annual saving of tax money!

When a public official stands right on moral questions; when he has a record of substantial economy in behalf of taxpayers; when he displays qualities of leadership for the best interests of the public, that man should be kept on the job.

Nels Edwards is such a man, and should be re-elected to the state senate by an overwhelming majority.

NELSON T. EDWARDS, Republican State Senator	X

Lyon Shows Opponent's Claims Are Groundless

LETTERS GIVE ANSWER: CITES ROAD FIGURES

ANAHEIM, Nov. 5. — Showing how inconsistent his opponents are in their attempts at refutation of his charges made of the activity of the board of supervisors in granting special privileges to certain individuals, LeRoy Lyon, candidate for supervisor of third district, presented letters and other data last night at the meeting here to prove that the excuses made for purchasing certain strips of ground off North street to build a road to property of private individuals are all without ground.

He also presented a new set of figures on the development of roads under special district assessments, and set a comparative figure showing how taxpayers' money was spent in advertising delinquent tax lists last fall.

The last charge, Lyon declared, was interesting in that the money paid the Fullerton News Tribune, split with the Anaheim Bulletin that did part of the work, for printing of the tax list was all out of proportion in considering figures paid by other counties for such work, and that the supervisors did not let the list according to bid, but simply gave the list into third district," just before election, because the incumbent supervisor needed the support of the papers."

Four Times Higher

Payment of $8,727.71 for printing the tax list of 26 pages is about four times as high as paid by the Riverside supervisors, Lyon pointed out

The Riverside Press, with a circulation of 7577, printed slightly more than 55 pages of delinquent tax lists, while the Orange county supervisors paid $8,727.71, ostensibly to Fullerton News Tribune, but in actuality to the Tribune and Bulletin, for publishing 26 pages in the Tribune that has a circulation of about half that of the Riverside Press, Lyon charged.

Although Lyon was not challenged from the floor last night, he took occasion to answer attacks that come back at him through the press of third district. William Schumacher, supervisor of the district, running for re-election, has as yet failed to attend and meet in person the attacks made by Lyon, who has repeatedly invited Schumacher to debate on the issues of the campaign.

Claims Shown False

Concerning his response to the last excuse for purchasing a strip of land to build a road to private property off North street for $2100, Lyon had letters from A. P. Nelson, attorney at Santa Ana, district attorney at the time of the purchasing of the right of way, and from Backs, county clerk, showing that data published concerning the purchase of the roads, both in editorials and in advertisements of Schumacher, is correct.

The road in question Lyon charged was built to the Johnston property off North street to allow an outlet to 50 acres of land.

In rebuttal at Buena Park, Floyd McCracken, editor of the Anaheim Bulletin, declared the road was not built for entry into the Johnston land, but was built to get to the dykes along the river to protect Anaheim in flood times, and that he, McCracken, was associated with the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce at the time requests were made of the supervisors to build the road.

C. C. McProud, of Fuller Park, however, and others present nailed the McCracken statement then by declaring that if reinforcements could not be gotten to the dykes by the way of the Olive street bridge, in time of flood, neither could they through that road, which would be under many feet of water under those circumstances, and further, if the road was built to get to the dyke, at the request of the Anaheim Chamber of Commerce, it should have led to the dykes instead of to the Johnston property, where at its termination the road lacks several hundred feet of reaching the dyke.

Claim Made

Then after McProud, who sold the land to the supervisors to build the road, had declared that the supervisors had told him they wanted the land for a road to lead to some property that was to be divided, the papers, and the advertisements, were declaring the road was built at thed emand of C. E. Merz, Los Angeles, who wanted to subdivide some acreage in the sand wash.

Quoting from a Schumacher advertisement in the Fullerton News Tribune date Oct. 31, "Then C. E. Merz addressed a letter to the Orange county board of supervisors requesting that a road be opened to provide a means of ingress and egress from Orange Grove acres subdivision in which Merz owned acreage (this so-called subdivision adjoins the Johnston property). At the time of the request the letter was referred to the district attorney's office for an opinion which was to the effect that the law requires the county to provide means of ingress and egress for subdivision accepted by the county. Following this opinion Schumacher moved to comply with the law."

Shown False

In checking on this excuse for purchasing the road, Henry Meiser, of Fullerton, addressed a letter to A. P. Nelson, Santa Ana, who was district attorney at the time of the purchase of the McProud land, asking him as to his opinion that the law demanded that roads of that nature be built, in the letter Meiser quoted from another advertisement, in which it was stated the supervisor purchased the property right of way in compliance with orders from the district attorney's office, and in his letter inquired, "As I understand it, you were district attorney of Orange county at that time, and I am writing this letter to inquire as to whether or not you did advise the board of supervisors that the law was mandatory on the supervisors to purchase rights of way to connect subdivision streets with public highways."

Nelson's reply which is printed in another column on this page, not only declared he had never given such an opinion to the supervisors, but that such was not the law on the matter.

The letter from Backs to which Lyon referred declares no such opinion as claimed by Schumacher's campaign forces was made by Nelson, is on file with his office. Backs is clerk of the board of supervisors.

"Thus," Lyon pointed out, "the road was not built to get to the dyke, as first explanation would lead to believe, and was not purchased because 'following this opinion (of the district attorney) Schumacher moved to comply with the law,' for the attorney at that time denies having given an opinion, and moreover says that there is no law to such effect."

Third District Figures

Concerning the spending of money Lyon showed how from the three funds, over a period of nine years, and figures for a longer period could not be obtained, third district has had a net loss of $491,686.14, and declared that "I think if all figures were obtainable we would see we could have wiped out all our bonded indebtedness." On top of this, Lyon pointed out that in spite of being the heaviest contributor in the county fund, third district has 18 of the 30 special road districts in the county, tax payers of which have to pay the regular as well as the special assessments, and of total of 94 miles of roads built by special district tax, the third district has 66.52 miles.

In connection with letters published in third district papers from Dr. Bryant in Los Angeles, urging physicians to support Lyon, and inferring that this contributed to control of Lyon by "outside influence" Lyon said he doesn't know Dr. Bryant personally, and has never received a penny money from him or his wife, Mrs. Suzanna Bixby Bryant, and had no idea they were working for him, but that "I am pleased to know a man of his caliber is willing to support me for supervisor because his family pays more money in taxes in the school district of which I am president of the school board, (Placentia Union district) than any one other interest, an amount better than $4500 for schooltaxes alone. Besides, the pay roll of the ranches at the Placentia Mutual packinghouse is more than $22,000 a year."

Gets Support

No opponent of Lyon spoke last night. S. James Tuffree, of Placentia, introduced the speaker. The other candidates at the primary for a place on the ballot to run as supervisor, Herb Oelke, John Kellenberger and W. J. Carmichael, all spoke urging support of Lyon to help break the political ring and to place a reliable man in office who will not do business in private, as did Henry Meiser, who deplored that it seemed necessary to deal in personalities, but that he deplored more that "the newspapers do not represent the people, and are seemingly tied up to one candidate as is the case in third district."

Lyon will talk again tonight at La Habra, where it is hoped by his supporters that Schumacher will meet him and answer in person the charges made, and present his stand on the issues.

PROOF OF FALSE STATEMENT

THE COMPLETE text of the letter written by A. P. Nelson, district attorney at the time in question, to H. G. Meiser, of Fullerton, concerning statements made by supporters of William Schumacher for supervisor, concerning a road to private property built with county funds, showing that the Schumacher statements are false, is given below:

"Your letter of the 2nd inst. duly received and in reply will say: that I have no independent recollection regarding the subdivision mentioned in your letter ever having been submitted to me for an opinion on the right of way mentioned in your letter.

"I can only say that I made it a fast rule, while I was district attorney, to submit written opinions on all matters referred to me for advice by the Board of Supervisors. If such an opinion as you refer to was ever rendered by me to the Board it should be on file with the Clerk.

"Will say further that I have gone over my official files covered by the period mentioned by you and do not find a copy of any such opinion; so I am constrained to believe that no such opinion was ever rendered by me to the Board, and I am the more convinced of this from the fact that the statement contained in your letter is not the law."

REFLECT

(Editor's Note—Reprinted herewith is an editorial from the Orange County News, of Anaheim, concerning the campaign being made in the third district for supervisor. This editorial and other material here is being printed concerning the third district race because newspapers in that district have shown partiality in favor of one candidate and discrimination against the other.)

The future of good government and the hope of the American people is that capable and honest men continually offer themselves for public office. In this manner can we be assured of the efficient administration of public affairs. When two good men are in the race the citizens are sure to win no matter who loses.

Any attempt to belittle, bulldoze, browbeat or "smear" good men who offer for office should be resented by the voters when they go to the polls. If this is done the public will find an increasingly large number of excellently qualified men seeking all of the offices and that governmental efficiency will increase proportionately.

Should we encourage a political system where men become afraid to offer for public offices due to the fact that they fear ridicule, gossip and direct attacks upon their good reputations we would aid in the building of a scheme that invites only the tough skinned, thick skulled, emotionless hunks who can stand anything and do anything.

The News believes that LeRoy Lyon is one of the finest, fairest, best qualified and most capable men to ever offer for the office of supervisor anywhere, in any county. The News also believes that the men defeated in the primary were a credit to their community and the office which they sought and our whole fight has been a fight to see that these men were treated fairly.

The News today is interested only in seeing that Mr. Lyon is treated fairly. We will continue to insist that all candidates so qualified are treated fairly. We want men of the type of LeRoy Lyon to continue to offer for public offices.

Mr. Lyon is president of the Olive Heights Citrus Association, he has been a member of the board of directors there for eight years, he has taken an active interest in the schools of his district and has been officially connected with them for over eighteen years. He represents, as a director, the Anaheim Farm center on the county Farm Bureau board, he is one of the five directors of the Orange By-Products plant at Ontario, he represents the Orange County Fruit exchange on the central board in Los Angeles, he is secretary of his community water company. His whole career is entwined in the interests dearest to Orange county. He should know its needs as well as any man—he does know them. He deserves fair treatment and the consideration of the voters on election day. Reflect upon these things when you make up your mind.

Encourage men like Mr. Lyon to run for public office. When you do you are doing a service to yourself and your community. VOTE FOR HIM NEXT TUESDAY.

Chief Tells How To Keep Burglars Away From Home

An apple a day will keep the doctor away, tis said, and a radio running when the family is away will keep a burglar away, according to a warning and a friendly tip to home owners made today by F. W. Howard, Chief of Police of Santa Ana.

"Many people who have never thought of stealing before may be forced to do it this winter by the acute unemployment conditions," Howard said.

"No burglar will enter a lighted house and particularly a lighted house where there is a radio turned on," he said. Therefore, as cheap burglar insurance, he suggests that a light be left burning and the radio turned on, while home owners are away in the evening, "just in case."

Pastor Attacks Propaganda Of Liquor Interests

ADVANTAGES OF AMENDMENT TO NATION CITED

EL MODENA, Nov. 5.—Dr. George A. Warmer, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church of Santa Ana, gave a talk on the amendments Friday evening at El Modena Friends church. He said that everyone should know that the basis of the argument of the anti-prohibitionists is false, but that owing to the fact that so many of the newspapers have been purchased by the wets, they have been pouring their propaganda across the country at such a rate that many are believing their deceptive words.

He read a statement made by Henry Ford that there are nearly 3 times as many autos according to the population in this country as there are in England, and that if intoxicating liquors are brought back to this country, 72,600 people will be killed every year, at the rate they are being killed in England. He said that the wet interests have stated that 95 per cent of the young people were drinkers. He stated that prohibition has stopped drinking, else there would be no effort made to bring back liquor.

Dr. Warmer said that if the states were to raise as large a sum in liquor taxes as the wets claim they could, every single family would have to drink 12 1-2 gallons of liquor daily. He said that since prohibition we have gained 400,000 new homes, that there are 50 per cent more young people in high schools that the death rate of children under five years of age is 42 per cent less and that there has been a 300 per cent increase in the number of young men and women attending college.

Dr. Warmer declared that it was necessary to vote "No" on No. 1 of the amendments and "No" on No. 2.

GOLDEN JUBILEE SERVICES SET FOR TOMORROW

ORANGE, Nov. 5.—Marking the beginning of the 50th year of the organization of the First Christian church, the first public worship service in a golden jubilee will be held tomorrow in the church, where the 49th anniversary will be observed with a simple program.

Because plans for the golden anniversary itself are being worked out elaborately and with great care, the close of the 49th year is to be marked with simplicity, the Rev. Franklin H. Minck, pastor of the church, announced today. Of the 19 charter members of the church, four are living and three are to be present for tomorrow's services. They are Mr. and D. C. Pixley and J. P. Boring, of Orange. The fourth, Mrs. T. J. Lockhart, of Los Angeles, will be unable to be present.

The goal for attendance at the church tomorrow has been set at 400 for Sunday school and 300 for morning church services, it was reported. "That the Church May Be Strengthened in Faith" will be the pastor's topic for the morning sermon. Musical numbers will include a vocal duet by Mrs. Walter Kogler and Mrs. Leon Des Larzes.

For the Sunday evening service, all former Sunday school superintendents, representing various denominations and various parts of the country as well, are to be honored guests. This is in keeping with the November program of honoring "Christian war veterans" during each evening service. The Rev. Mr. Minck's sermon will be the first of a series on football topics, "Stopped on the One-Yard Line." The Young Men's chorus and Young Men's quartet will provide special music.

In preparation for the 50th anniversary in 1933, booklets are being compiled, giving the history of the organization of the church. The Rev. T. D. Garvin was the first pastor here, the church having been dedicated by the Rev. Mr. King, of Pennsylvania, who had come to California for his health.

ENDORSES

and recommends him as the candidate best qualified to carry out the Civic League ideals of tax economy and true representative government, without favoritism to any small group or clique.

This recommendation is based upon Van Wyk's record of conservative management as a rancher, and as director of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers Association, coupled with his character and personal qualifications; also his platform for economy, fair treatment for Santa Ana in the matter of gasoline tax funds, his stand for law enforcement and retention of the Wright act, and the endorsement of business and personal friends who have been closely associated with him over a period of years. He has never held public office and we believe he will be a tax-saving official who can best serve the tax-paying public of which he is a part.

The opposing candidate, who also is a man of high character and unquestioned honesty, was not endorsed because of his repeated declarations in favor of new public expenditures, and his record of working for such projects, including the $16,500,000 dam bond issue of which he was chairman, Santa Ana Boulevard, the St. Ann's Inn purchase, and higher taxes for Santa Ana to provide increased funds for the Chamber of Commerce; also his opposition to Santa Ana's interests, while County Auditor for 16 years, in the diversion of $15,000 of Santa Ana money into the county treasury, which was thus lost to the city, and the balance being paid to us only after the city had been forced to the expense of a lawsuit, and a private audit of the County Auditor's books, to get what rightfully belonged to Santa Ana, and which was used for unemployment relief early this year.

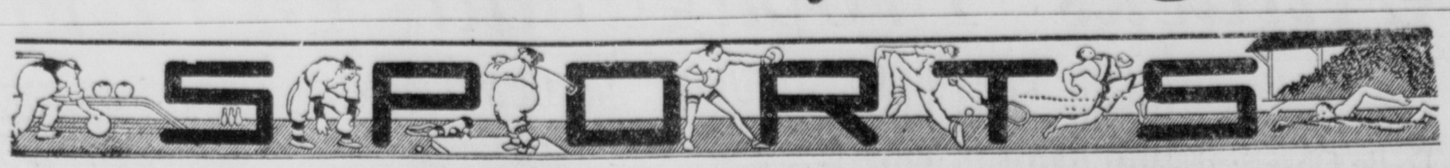

We Should Elect A Tax Saver, Not An Experienced Tax Spender

Respectfully Submitted to the Voters of Santa Ana by the Orange County Civic League, 213 Ramona Bldg.

The Civic League also recommends a "Yes" vote on Amendment No. 11, "Tidelands Grant to Huntington Beach," as a means of unemployment relief and creation of new oil-royalty revenue for the public treasury of the state and of Huntington Beach; also because Huntington Beach is entitled to the same control of her tide and submerged lands which Newport Beach, Los Angeles, and other coast cities already have.

HONEY FOR S. A. NET OFFICIALS

Les Stoefen has played tennis the length and breadth of the land. Seldom, he says, has he enjoyed a tournament more than the recent Santa Ana Open, first major undertaking of the thriving Santa Ana Tennis club.

The courts were as good as average, climatic conditions superb, the gallery friendly and appreciative. Stoefen and others liked, too, the "little touches" which made the competition unique. For instance, orange juice and sandwiches were provided not only players but spectators.

The tournament finished in the red about $25 but club officials were elated, considered this a moral victory. They expected to drop several times that. Spectators were not taxed, sole revenue coming from players' entry fees.

Gil Ward and John Crees, president and secretary of the Santa Ana Tennis club, anticipate a much bigger tournament next year. They hope to schedule it for May, all things considered a better tennis month than November which conflicts with football. They are already laying preliminary plans, have been assured hearty co-operation from outstanding contestants.

Tennis interest here has developed amazingly in the past year, dating back to the organization of the club. A drive is now being conducted for junior members. Eventually, the club plans to own its own courts and clubhouse.

PREP PLAY UP TO SNUFF

The season's interscholastic teams have advanced far enough to indicate that the brand is up to the usual high standard of Orange and Coast league football.

So far perhaps no squad has shown the brilliant versatility of Santa Ana's 1931 "wonder team" but there are individual stars who compare favorably with the outstanding players of past seasons.

Noe, Montgomery, Jack Mitchell, Kidder and Rash of Santa Ana have done well right from the start with Bolton, Conrad and Stranske coming fast after beginning poorly. These are in the running for all-conference honors.

Takahashi of Long Beach starred against Santa Ana, but his work has suffered since and the strongest Hares now appear Center Callahan, Tackle Arnold, Fullback Williams.

At San Diego, Pollock, Knapp, Meyers, Westland and Beerle are well regarded although Beerle was almost a total loss in the important game with Santa Ana.

Alhambra's has half a dozen promising candidates, will land several if the Moors beat Santa Ana next Friday. End Ogden, Tackle Becker, Guard Stockton, Center Collier, Backs Sefton, Archibald and Nuccio are highly touted.

Pasadena offers for consideration a fine tackle in Venegoni, two splendid backs in Duncan and Busby and the league's No. 1 guard, Al Hoop. Despite its defeat by Santa Ana, Pasadena measures up as the third best team in the league, may prove even stronger than Alhambra.

Glendale may place more than it usually does on all-star teams. Fullback Stoner is a good man. Halfback Bartlett has worlds of speed. End Kelly and Tackles Anderson and Taylor are formidable.

The Coast league's all-conference elevens are selected at the end of each season by a jury of newspapermen connected with the leading dailies in league cities.

To gain a place is no empty honor. Picked in past years were such men as Don Williams, Morley Drury, "Moon" Mullins, Jim Musick, Tom Mallory, Orv Mohler, Irvine Warburton, Ray Tandy, Ed Moeller, Lowry McCaslin, Ray Dawson, "Chuck" Ehrhorn, Russ Saunders, Bill Mittelstedt, Johnny Seixas, George Grey, Bill Schutte, Bill Brosseau, "Red" Franklin, Al Reboin and Charley Boren.

ORANGE LEAGUE STANDOUTS

Ablest of Orange league gridmen appears big tackle Morris Bergman of Brea-Olinda, fifth in a line of Brea Bergmans. Ledbetter is also an outstanding man on this team.

Anaheim's powerful line is especially strong at end with Kidd and Mott, and at tackle with Davis and Brown. Cheatham is one of the best backs in the conference.

Orange, which usually dominates all-conference selection, has few nominees this fall. Center Walker, Back McBride and Guard Maag are all-conference possibilities.

Hapes, Garden Grove's quarterback, is a standout. Tackle Devine and Fullback Hodgson are both strong players.

Huntington Beach has to fine prospects in Bill Blaylock and Don Moore. Newport Harbor offers two good linemen in Ogden and Wellington.

SHORT SHORT SPORT STORIES

Boiling it down:

Matchmaker Kid Mexico plans to present popular Henry Pena in the main event when he reopens the Orange County Athletic club as an amateur boxing arena November 15.....The last time Santa Ana Hi played at Alhambra the score was 47-7 in favor of Alhambra. Orv Mohler made four touchdowns, running 55, 62, 64 and 85 yards, respectively. That was the worst defeat ever suffered by a Santa Ana football team..... Let's guess about the Rose Bowl. Will it be U. C. L. A. vs. Colgate? Or U. S. C. vs. Tennessee? Or St. Mary's vs. Columbia? Or is Washington State going to win the Pacific Coast conference and beat 'em all to Pasadena?.....Santa Ana Hi and Santa Ana jaysee will play all their 1933 games at the Municipal Bowl—if the ground is turfed.

NEXT THURSDAY'S GAMES

Clearing the way for an Orange league championship game with Garden Grove November 18, Coach Dick Glover's Anaheim Colonists blasted their way to a fifth successive conference football victory at Anaheim yesterday—with their goalline uncrossed.

Rolling up more than 350 yards from scrimmage and 18 first downs, the league leaders mowed down little Newport Harbor, 20-0. Garden Grove, chief threat to Anaheim's titular ambition, had difficulty spanking Harbor, 7-0, last week.

Anaheim is now a topheavy favorite to win the league. Glover's men draw a bye next week while Garden Grove is playing the tough Brea-Olinda Wildcats, and Huntington Beach, still a mathematical contender, is meeting Orange.

Newport Harbor put up its customary courageous exhibition but the cards were all stacked against the lighter, inexperienced team.

Foster Cheatham, one of the league's foremost tacks, ran wild for Anaheim during the first two quarters. He scored from the one-yard line in the first period to climax a 60-yard touchdown drive and went over from the same place in the second quarter after a 50-yard march. Mott added the extra point.

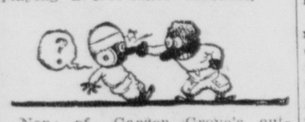

Quarterback Smith sparkled on the trudge to the third quarter touchdown, scoring from the 11-yard line. Mott again added the extra point.

The lineups:

DEFEAT DOES NOT COUNT AGAINST PEPPERS

Coach Stan Gould's inspired San Juan Capistrano Missionaries defeated Garden Grove, 19-18, at Garden Grove but it didn't count against Coach John Ward's Peppers because the Missionaries are playing a free-lance schedule.

None of Garden Grove's outstanding stars, Ray Hapes included, played at all and other Argonaut regulars were used sparingly, Ward preferring to save them for the important Brea-Olinda and Anaheim contests coming up.

San Juan Capistrano won by adding the extra point after its first touchdown, made by Nieblas on a blocked punt. None of the other five scores was converted. Nieblas, Errecarte and LeGekes contributed Capistrano touchdowns. Matsumoto made two for the Peppers, Stout one.

HUNTINGTON BEACH IN VICTORY AT TUSTIN

Tustin's Farmers lost a hard fought battle to the Huntington Beach Oilers, 6-0, at Tustin.

Although Tustin was decidedly the underdog, the Farmers knocked at the Huntington goal line more than once and kept the Spudders on defense most of the first half.

The lone tally came in the third period when McIntter's punt was blocked and recovered by the Oilers on the Tustin 15-yard marker. From there Donnie Moore made a 9-yard sprint and at last pushed the ball over from the 1-yard line. Huntington Beach failed to convert.

Most of the game was a battle between Blaylock, fleet Huntington back, who made several nice runs, and Parr, speedy Tustin quarter, one of the fastest sprinters in the county. Parr had been laid up with a knee injury until this game.

Moore and Neenan played excellent ball for the Oilers Seacord, Bronner and McIntter stood out for Tustin.

Oxy's 12-Man Eleven Wins 'Experiment'

PASADENA, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The Occidental college Tigers innovated the "12-man" football team last night by scoring a decisive victory over Santa Barbara State college, 20 to 0, in a Southern California Conference game.

With both teams using the twelfth man acted as a "field general" or second quarterback, the Tigers found little use of him, the regular eleven tearing gaping holes in the lighter Santa Barbara line.

Coach Bill Spaulding of U. C. L. A. was one of the number of California coaches who watched the new system, as devised by Andy Kerr, Colgate mentor.

The extra player presided at huddle sessions, called signals and then stepped back with the referee as the play started. While his team was on the defensive, he retired to the sidelines.

CANZONERI IN 15-ROUND WIN OVER PETROLLE

BY HENRY McELMORE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(UP)—It just wasn't in the cards for Billy Petrolle to win a championship.

After 11 long years of campaigning, during which he never once got a shot at a title, fate handed him a crack at the lightweight crown. And what did Billy draw for an opponent? A Tony Canzoneri at his peak; a Canzoneri so magnificently conditioned, so beautifully attuned that even the old-timers at the ringside admitted he was worthy to stand alongside the lightweight giants of the past.

The nearly 20,000 customers who jammed Madison Square Garden for the bout last night went there to see a fight that had been ballyhooed as the best lightweight scrap of the decade. For 10 rounds it was about that. Then Petrolle, the old "Fargo Express," reached the end of the line.

Up until that point he had roared along at top speed, throttle open, whistle down. The derailment came in the eleventh when, without warning, his speed, his punch, his stamina—in fact everything but his will to win—left him. From there on out, the old "Fargo Express" was just a milk train finishing out the run.

BRUSHING UP SPORTS . . By Laufer

HOOKS and SLIDES

by WILLIAM BRAUCHER

The Sporting News is a paper printed weekly in St. Louis, and is devoted exclusively to baseball. It might be regarded as being "in the know" regarding any inside talk concerning Hornsby's possible succession to Gabby Street as manager of the Cardinals. Says the Sporting News:

"Although Sam Breadon and Branch Rickey, as well as Rog Hornsby himself, went out of their way to assure everybody that the engagement of the Rajah as player on the 1933 Cardinals was not the forerunner to his eventual elevation to the management of the team, the man on the street arched a quizzical eyebrow when the news became known.

"Somehow, the man on the street could not be convinced that the Messrs. Breadon and Rickey were not looking ahead for possible eventualities that might bring the Rajah back in charge of the team on which he won his greatest distinction as a field leader in 1926.

"This was a manifestly unfair attitude toward Charley Street, who has given St. Louis two pennants during his three years' incumbency, but you can't shoot a fan for making the first and last guess."

SHOOTING STARS

There you have it—the excitement has begun already! You know, that wherever Hornsby has gone—to the Giants, Braves and Cubs—stories of discord have followed him.

The Sporting News suggests that St. Louis fans are "guessing that" Hornsby will succeed Street, and that the fans see Breadon and Rickey getting ready for such an eventuality.

Why, doesn't it appear that there's trouble already!

HORNSBY AT SECOND

Ostensibly, the idea is to play Hornsby at second base and Frisch at third. But surely there is little doubt among any of those who have watched Hornsby's play the last few years that he no longer is a second baseman. He can hit, to be sure, but around the base his fielding just won't do. The hardiest optimist among the critical playing clientele knows very well that Hornsby no longer is an infielder, and Hornsby knows it himself.

It would be more reasonable to assume, in the light of the facts, that Hornsby's chief baseball services in the year of 1933 will be as a coach. He is a great developer of youthful talent. There probably is not a wiser teacher in baseball.

Many remarks in the press box during the late world series were to the general effect that "this would not have happened if the old Rajah had been running the show for the Cubs."

That appears to be the best guess this corner can offer, since it is just about impossible on the face of the whole matter that Hornsby will play. He will coach and wait.

WAIT—FOR WHAT?

And if the team, directed by Old Sarge Gabby Street, should slip next year as badly as the boys fell off in 1932, what will happen?

Will Messrs. Breadon and Rickey call the Old Sarge aside and pat him on the shoulder and say, after the manner of college football coaches, "Oh ,that's all right, Charley, better luck next time. Baseball's only a game, after all?"

Maybe they will. Maybe they also will hand him a ticket to Rochester or another of the Cardinal farms. It has been done.

Then who would become manager of the Cardinals? Perhaps, Santa Claus?

FULLERTON DEFEATS SAN BERNARDINO HI

Walt Raitt and Don Hobbs made five of Fullerton's six touchdowns while Coach Don Cruickshank's Indians were scalping San Bernardino Hi of the Citrus Belt league, 40-13, at Fullerton yesterday.

Raitt scored three times, Hobbs twice. Jewett accounted for the other one. Nicholson and Cox tallied for San Bernardino.

Continuing its free-lance schedule, Fullerton meets the powerful Santa Barbara eleven at Fullerton in connection with the annual Orange County Armistice Day celebration Friday. Fullerton also meets Santa Ana at Santa Ana November 19. If Fullerton makes a good showing in these contests, it probably will be admitted to the Southern California championship playoffs.

Temple Owls Tied By Haskell Eleven

PHILIDELPHIA, Nov. 5.—(UP)—The Temple Owls, one of the east's seven undefeated football teams, was held to a 14-14 tie by the Haskell Indians at Temple stadium last night when a wiry little Indian substitute "White Bird" lived up to his name by making two thrilling runs for Haskell touchdowns.

Elder Beats Grant, Sets Bowl Record

Santa Ana's nocturnal motorcycle racing season was closed today, with the Bowl track not to be reopened until next spring unless connections are made for Sunday afternoon programs.

World's Champion "Sprouts" Elder shattered the course record before 3500 customers last night, touring the fifth-of-a-mile lap in 13 2-5 seconds. Elder also won the final scratch race, and rode away from Ray Grant in a two-lap match affair. Bo Lisman was second in the feature, Cordy Milne third.

Milne was first in the final handicap, Grant second.

Grant won the popularity contest.

Jack Milne, "Mutt" Kelly and Tom Cox all figured in spectacular spills but none was seriously injured.

WINTER LEAGUE NINES RESUME ACTION SUNDAY

With both Roy Mullins and "Lefty" Greer available for mound service, Huntington Beach is expected to plumb the strength of Santa Ana's Hancock Oilers at Santa Ana Airways park tomorrow in the second round of Orange County Winter league baseball play.

Marvin Johnston, Johnny Mallett and John Willcutt are the gunners on the Hancock Oil staff, Manager "Bomo" Koral reserving the right to start any of the trio.

Behind the Huntington Beach hurlers will be a seasoned lineup, with Gifford or Saulsbury catching, Greer, McGuire, Maness and Wilson in the infield and Davis, Lake and Gerr in the outfield.

Mel Beatty will catch for Hancock Oil. B. Koral will play first base, Wright second, Moyer third and Prather short. Gordon, Fredericks and Lindsay are the flyhawks.

Two other league conflicts are listed for the Sabbath, Irvine visiting Garden Grove and Santa Ana traveling to Laguna Beach.

SANTA ANA OPENS SEASON AT PASADENA

Opening its Southern California Winter league season against the powerful Pasadena Merchants, defending champions, the Hancock Oil's No. 1 club of Santa Ana travels to Brookside park, Pasadena, tomorrow afternoon.

Pasadena has substantially the same team that won the championship last year. "String" McDonnell, well known night ball player, plays first base and is relief pitcher. "Dad" Rohrer does the catching. Joe Marty is No. 1 pitcher. George and Ernie Haas, Jim McNabb and Williams are other outstanding pastimers.

Santa Ana will have Rolland Shepherd and Joe Erwin for mound duty with a possibility that Bob Stoner will join the club in time to see action. Stoner has been hurling for Shell Oil.

Clarence Hapes will catch. Around the horn will be Bill Sweet, Joe Koral, "Hen" Thiery and "Memphis" Hill. Leavitt Daley, Floyd Hatfield and Fritz Gunther will do the fly-chasing, with Arch Carpenter in reserve.

FORWARD PASS WINS FOR BREA AT ORANGE

A second quarter pass, Quarterback Stewart to End Hammer gave Brea-Olinda a 7-0 victory over Orange at Orange. BEARS IN GOOD SHAPE EXCEPT FOR END GILL

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Coach Bill Ingram of the University of California believed his team has an "even chance" against the University of Southern California here today.

"My team is in the best psychological condition it has been all year," he said as he arrived this morning with 36 of his varsity huskies.

"We are in fine spirit," he concluded, "and you might say we think we have an even chance."

The Golden Bears left their train at Glendale and proceeded immediately to the Huntington hotel in Pasadena where they remained until shortly before gametime.

The California band was to have arrived before the team and to have serenaded the football players but the train carrying the musicians came in half-an-hour late.

Ingram said his team was in fine physical condition with the exception of John Gill, end, a brother of "Rusty" Gill, California's All-American fullback last year.

Gill was suffering from a knee injury but Ingram believed the end might get in for part of the game.

Despite Ingram's claim of an "even chance," local sentiment favored Southern California with the betting at 10 to 7 and with points being given for even money.

Saint Basketball Candidates Begin Drill Next Week

Basketball is not far away at Santa Ana high school and junior college.

Preparing for a two-round schedule early next month, the Saints—those not out for football—begin training next week. Bill Cook, head coach, is now busy with Don football, but will appoint an assistant, probably Henry Thiery of the junior college, to look after Hi's candidates in early drills. League play begins December 9.

The Dons, who tied for the junior college championship last season, will open training immediately after the Thanksgiving holidays. The Orange Empire conference schedule starts early in January, Coach Bill Foote announced today.

RAIN THREATENED AT CARD-HUSKY BATTLE

PALO ALTO, Nov. 5.—(UP)—What started the season as Stanford's greatest team since 1928, only to be upset by U. S. C. and U. C. L. A. on successive Saturdays, makes its "last stand" for Pacific Coast honors against the rugged University of Washington Huskies here this afternoon.

Both coaches, the veteran "Pop" Warner of Stanford, and genial Jimmy Phelan of Washington, needed a victory today to enhance the slipping prestige of their elevens. Both had all regulars in shape for the contest and announced that they expected to "shoot the works."

Weather that held rain in prospect threatened to cut the crowd in Stanford stadium to less than 40,000. A wet gridiron would give the Huskies an advantage.

Benny Miller Wins From Henry Firpo

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Benny Miller, 168, tapped out a 10-round decision over Henry Firpo, 167, in the main bout at the bi-weekly boxing program at Hollywood Legion stadium last night. The battle was close but slow and listless, neither fighter scoring any damaging blows. Firpo staged a mild rally in the final round but could not overcome Miller's earlier lead.

Primo Knocks Out Kennedy In Third

BOSTON, Nov. 5.—(INS)—Lee Kennedy, Los Angeles heavyweight, was ready to start all over again today. His bid for fame was snapped here last night when he faced Primo Carnera, giant Italian. Canera toyed with the Coast heavy before knocking him out in the third round of a scheduled 10-round fight.

Wrestler Zbyszko To Aid Roosevelt

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(INS)—Stan Zbyszko, former wrestling champion, girded for battle today. But he won't do his stuff on the mat.

Stan is now an active member of Tammany hall's speakers' bureau and makes addresses for the Democrats in ten languages.

33,000 KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENTS

FROM $1000 TO JUNK IN FORTY SECONDS

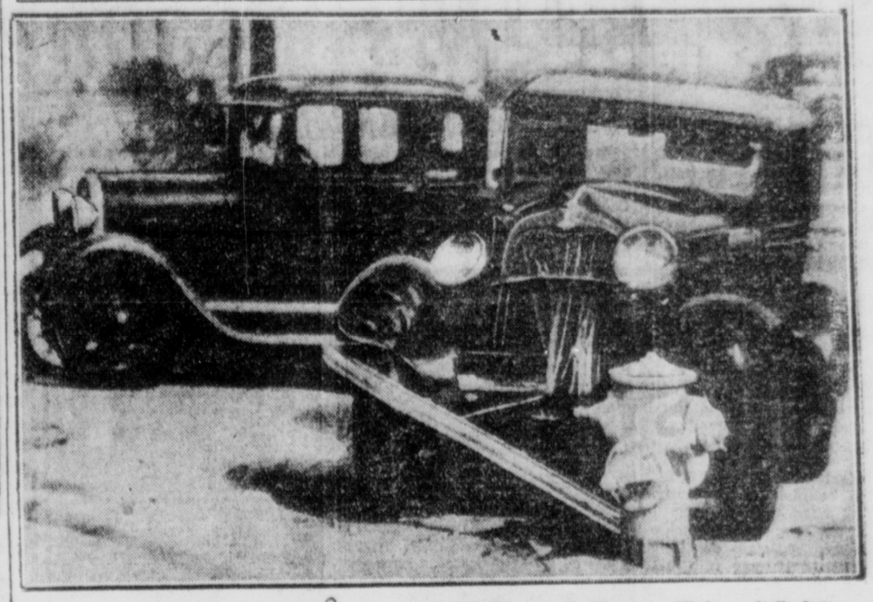

From $1000 to junk in forty seconds. Startling, isn't it. But accidents like this do happen. Millions of dollars worth of property damage is done each year by mishaps similar to this one. To say nothing of the thousands of lives that are lost. A careful survey shows that a large percentage of such accidents are due to faulty brakes and worn smooth tires. You can well imagine how much these cars were worth after this collision.

Electric Brake Tester Reduces Toll

Above is a picture of the Firestone Dynamic Brake Tester in action. Gauges at the side tell a driver the exact condition of his brakes at a glance. Free scientific tests are being conducted during November at the Firestone Service Store at 1st and Main streets. Mr. Johnson will be glad to arrange a free brake test for anyone.

ACCIDENTS LIKE THIS HAPPEN EVERY DAY

Well worth the attention of every automobile driver is this picture. This accident might have been avoided if the cars had had a brake adjustment. School, Police and Auto Club heads, as well as a Citizens' Safety Committee, are organizing a Safety Campaign during November to cut down the terrific toll traffic is taking in deaths, injuries and property loss.

MILLION PEOPLE INJURED IN 1931

An appalling toll of 33,000 deaths was taken last year by auto accidents. Over one million people were injured and millions of dollars worth of property damage was caused by the many mishaps on the road. A dismal outlook was forecast by one of the largest insurance companies when they recently anticipated that deaths due to auto accidents will show an increase of 2.5 per cent over last year. The reported gain in deaths means an increase of about 5 per cent in fatalities per thousand cars registered.

6300 School Children Killed

One of the sad comments on the above is that over one-fifth, or 6600, of those killed were school children. In spite of every precaution that has been taken, such as safety zones in school districts and policemen at school crossings, it has been an extremely difficult task to make the streets safe for our children. Many comparisons have been made between the traffic fatalities and injuries and those suffered during the World War, showing that auto accidents are to be more feared than German howitzers. The terrific number of deaths and accidents continues to rise, however, and now in Huntington Park we must make every effort to stop it.

Faulty Brakes—Bad Tires

A careful check of auto accidents during the past year shows a rather amazing situation. A large percentage of these accidents can be directly attributed to bad brakes. Several of the accidents could have been avoided if one or both of the machines involved had had better braking power. Smooth worn tires, glaring headlights, carelessness and several other causes were responsible for others.

IMPROVEMENT OF HIGHWAYS AIDS JOBLESS

Unemployment relief and beautification of state highways will go hand in hand for a period following action of the State Highway commission at a recent meeting, according to advices reaching the Automobile Club of Southern California. It is stated that an appropriation of $300,000 was made from maintenance funds which will be utilized in roadside improvement largely on highways in this section.

Some time ago an appropriation of $100,000 was made from state funds as an unemployment relief measure which is being utilized in improving the appearance of highways in Northern California.

It is understood that under the plan adopted meals and housing only will be furnished for men engaged in this work.

With this announcement the suggestion has come to the motoring organization that towns and cities might follow this lead and cleanup and plant along highways that are badly in need of roadside improvement. This is urged because California's highway system is an attraction to motorists and should be pleasing to the highest degree, in addition to affording comfortable travel.

It is pointed out further that it is probable that many Californians will do their vacationing in their own state for the next year or so, and not only will appreciate the beautification work, but will become staunch advocates of such activities being undertaken by the communities and the state.

FIRESTONE SERVICE STORE TO CUT DOWN TREMENDOUS LOSSES

Mr. W. D. Johnson of Firestone Service Store, Inc., announced today that his store is going to join "Better Brakes." Johnson's store is one of the oldest automobile service stations in Santa Ana and is located at 1st and Main.

No Profit—Bare Cost!

Johnson said: "I have the approval of Firestone Service Stores, Inc., to enter whole-heartedly in this movement, and to do all within the power of our organization to help. Our first move will be to offer special prices in our brake department—giving brake adjustments at no profit, just the bare cost of materials and labor.

Over Five Million Invested

"Few people know," Johnson said, "that Firestone Stores and Service Dealers have more money invested in brake equipment than any similar organization in the country. Our Electric Dynamic Brake testing equipment is valued at well over five million dollars. Naturally the world's premier tire manufacturer, Firestone, would make a careful study of one of the chief causes of tire wear—namely, faulty brakes. It is interesting to note that since making a survey, Firestone company through their stores and dealers have pioneered in the development of brake equipment."

Dynamic Tester

Johnson went on to say: "Our Electric Dynamic Brake Tester tells a motorist at a glance just how quickly he can stop and if his braking is equalized."

AUTOMOBILE CLUB OFFICIAL ISSUES WARNING

Mr. Elmer E. Heidt, of the Auto Club, today issued a warning to all motorists. He says, "Many motorists have been going for months without having their brakes tested, to see that they conform with the state law."

Small Towns—Heavy Fines!

He continued, "The police of many small towns grow lax over the summer months on brake testing, but with the rainy season starting many brake-drives will be made.

"We appeal to every motorist to have their brakes tested at an official station and receive a brake certificate. Often these small towns find their best source of revenue is from motorists, who are caught with bad brakes, and a heavy fine is imposed."

NEW FIRESTONE BRAKE LINING

The Firestone Tire and Rubber Company recently announced a new improved brake lining.

All Firestone lining is now treated with the Aquapruf process, which coates every fibre and insulates lining so that it is not affected by water or moisture.

AUTOMOBILE CLUB IN SLOGAN SUGGESTION

"Watch Your Ignition," is a slogan suggested by the August report of the emergency service department of the Automobile Club of Southern California. This shows that nearly 5000 calls for help were received, or an average of 150 each day.

Ignition trouble led all the rest as there were 680 calls due to some fault in the electrical equipment of the car.

Although there was no rain during the month, 156 cars became stuck in mud, sand or ditches.

SANTA ANA MERCHANTS JOIN SAFETY CAMPAIGN

All the Santa Ana merchants have been invited to join in this safety move. Most of them have signified their intention of having their delivery equipment, as well as their personal cars' brakes tested immediately, and if not in perfect order, to have them taken care of.

Tested Free

Firestone Service Stores, Inc., has agreed to test all merchants' cars brakes without charge on their Electric Dynamic Brake Tester.

FREE TEST IS OFFERED

Firestone Service Stores, Inc., will test the brakes on any passenger car during the "Better Brakes" movement without charge.

SCHOOL HEAD INDORSES MOVE

Mr. F. A. Henderson, supt. of schools in Santa Ana agreed that the Safety Move was an excellent idea. He deplored the ever increasing number of children killed in accidents in the last year and was pleased that Santa Ana was starting something to cut down the chance of mishap in this city.

He said, "We of the educational departments all over the country have fought to obtain stricter laws—safety zones in school districts and more careful driving generally and we welcome any activity to increase the safety of school children on their way to school."

The schools themselves have made safety activities part of the regular training for all children.

NEW SAFETY COMMITTEE STARTS MOVE

A new committee has started a "Better Brakes" movement here in Santa Ana. It is headed by W. A. "Jack" Wiley.

"Of course," Mr. Wiley said, "what we are primarily interested in is not better brakes, but safer brakes. We feel sure that many accidents may be avoided if every person living in Santa Ana will have their brakes tested and put in A-1 condition."

Mr. Wiley carried even more conviction in his statement when interviewed. He said, "It is the duty of every Santa Ana citizen to make his car as safe as possible. During the World war we considered people slackers who did not do their bit, but right here at home we have a war that is taking more lives than any battle ever took and people are not publicly condemned negligent of duty."

Mr. Wiley related that a survey had been made of over 100 cities and that the most effective way of cutting down accidents had been to have police brake tests and a heavy fine imposed on drivers of cars which did not conform to safe stopping regulations. He said: "We, of the safety committee, sincerely hope that such measures will not be necessary here in Santa Ana, but if reports do not show a decrease of accidents, we intend to petition the police to start a campaign."

London furriers report that their biggest business in many months was during the record-breaking heat wave in August, buyers being bargain hunters who thought it the psychological time to stock up.

The 164-year-old vine at Hampton Court palace, London, bore 500 bunches of grapes this year.

POLICE START BRAKE TESTS

Chief of Police F. W. Howard, when interviewed today on the Better Brakes Campaign, said that his department would cooperate to the fullest extent in using their "Brake Tests" to make motorists realize that the police intend to have every motorist have brakes that conform to the new state regulations.

Week's Notice

"We will give one week's notice to Santa Ana automobile owners to give them an opportunity to have their braking power checked and adjusted and then start on an industrious campaign of testing cars at various parts in the city," Mr. Howard said.

New Provisions

Several new changes have been made in the State Law governing brakes and stopping distances.

All Brakes Must Comply

Heavy fines may be imposed on all motorists who drive cars not complying in detail with these regulations. Any officer can tell you just what distance your car must stop in at certain speeds to be safe.

WET WEATHER REQUIRES GOOD BRAKES

The first few rains of the season make many, but not enough people realize that their brakes require adjustment to hold properly on wet, skiddy pavements. As a rule, brakes with equalized power stop a car safely and without skidding on slippery roads. A warning that brakes are not acting correctly is issued when a car slides to one side when coming to a quick stop.

Many fatal accidents could have been avoided on wet pavements, mountain roads and other dangerous spots if the car had not been pulled to one side or started sliding due to the right or left brakes grabbing first. You have four brakes on your car. Check yourself on these questions. Are all four brakes working properly? Can you afford to take the chance on your own life and an the lives of your family when adjustment costs so little?

More Autos Than Voters in Some Counties in State

Although California long since put itself on record as having more automobiles registered than there are telephones in the state, the last election developed that in some counties there are more automobiles registered than there are registered voters, it is noted by the Automobile Club of Southern California.

According to the records, there are 12 counties in the state where the automobile registration outnumbers the voters. These are Glenn, Imperial, Kings, Madera, Merced, Monterey, Napa, San Joaquin, Santa Cruz, Stanislaus, Tulare and Yolo.

Should the automobile dealers adopt the slogan, "A car for every registered voter," it would mean the absorption of more than 600,000 more cars in the state as the primary registration showed 2,665,830 persons entitled to vote while the automobile registration is slightly under 2,000,000.

"MOVIE CRAZY" AT FOX BROADWAY SUNDAY

"Life Begins" Comes To West Coast On Monday

DELICATE PLOT WELL HANDLED IN NEW FILM

"Life Begins," dramatic story of the birth of children, comes to the Fox West Coast theater Monday.

A film that all women will enjoy, it's a treatment of a story startling, tensely dramatic and handled with exquisite taste and understanding, according to Regina Crewe, of the New York American, who in her criticism of the film declares it to be one of the most gripping pictures yet made in Hollywood.

A story difficult to visualize, one that required courage on the part of the producer, a radical departure from the too oft-beaten trail, "Life Begins" fulfills every hope. Each scene strikes straight at the truth and the entire drama is unfolded in such a simple manner that it leaves a deep impression.

In reviewing the picture Arthur Brisbane says: "There is a lady in the night club not at all joyful when the doctor tells her, 'Madam, the X-ray shows you will have twins.' She remarks: 'That would happen to me.' She decides to give the babies away but after seeing them, she tells the lady who comes for them to scram.'

"That picture ought to be seen by all husbands that go for a walk when their baby is born and by those who oppose birth control in all cases."

VELEZ, MCLAGLEN, LOWE IN NEW ONE

Lupe Velez has signed a Fox contract to play the leading feminine role in the new Captain Flagg-Sergeant Quirt picture, "Hell to Pay." Edmund Lowe and Victor McLaglen will again play the two famous devil-dogs they impersonated in "What Price Glory" and "The Cock Eyed World."

El Brendel, who made his hilarious debut in "The Cock Eyed World," will have a prominent role in this new Flagg and Quirt film, which John Blystone is to direct from an original story by Dudley Nichols and Henry Johnson.

WASHINGTON FILM ENDS RUN HERE

The experience of a youthful congressman, who tries to do what he thinks is right for his country and the little headway that he makes, is the story of "Washington Merry Go Round" which closes its Santa Ana engagement at the Fox Broadway theater tonight.

The picture features Lee Tracy, who will be remembered here in "The Blessed Event" and has been showing at the theater since last Thursday.

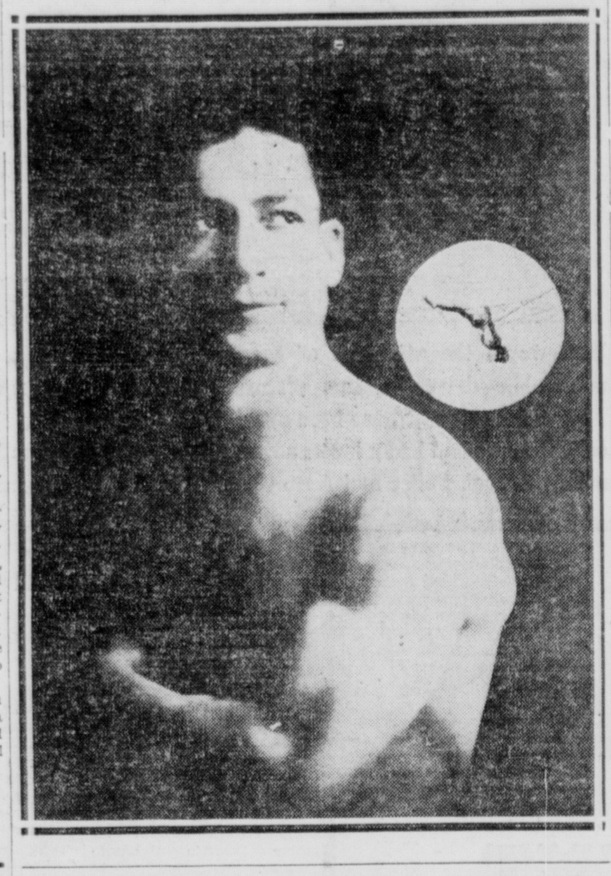

A true picture of conditions in Washington, how far a "green" congressman can get, and what happens to the inexperienced, makes for a grand show.

ALMOST GODIVA

OROVILLE—(UP)—When Mrs. George Koenig emerged from a half-hour swim in Feather river, she discovered her clothes stolen. She wrapped herself in a robe and drove to Oroville.

IN AERIAL ACT

Manuel Valencia, who appears in one of the most daring aerial acts the local stage has seen in several years. he act together with four others make up the stage attraction at hte Fox West Coast theater over the week end.

"AIRMAIL" TO SHOW HERE FOR THREE DAYS

Never before and probably never again—such a picture as "Airmail," Universal's great classic of the fearless flyers of the government mail which is the next feature attraction at the Fox Broadway theater beginning next Thursday. It marks the opening of the new season at this theater as this film has marked it in all other cities.

The real, gripping, spectacular story of the intrepid pilots who daily defy death and danger so that "the mail goes through!" marks the first time these unsung heroes have had their romantic, adventurous lives brought to the screen.

Full of thrills, roaring with action, unbelievably exciting with some of the greatest air camera shots ever made—that's "Air Mail." The story of a flying skipper who laughed at tailspins until Cupid cracked him up! The saga of men who lived for the moment with death reaching for the rudder!

Pat O'Brien as the devil-may-care hedge-popper, Ralph Bellamy as the self-sacrificing airport chief, Russell Hopton as the disillusioned veteran, Slim Summerville dishing out "greaseball" philosophy, Lovely Gloria Stuart, Seductive Lilian Bond—and other favorites of yours.

MINNA GAMBELL ON NEW YORK OUTING

Minna Gombell, noted Fox comedienne, is leaving Hollywood this week for a short vacation in New York City, after a strenuous year in Fox pictures. In thirteen months, Miss Gombell has played in twelve pictures, the latest of which is "Walking Down Broadway," which has just been completed by director Erich von Stroheim with James Dunn and Boots Mallory in the leading roles. Miss Gombell's first important picture was "Bad Girl," and among her others are "Dance Team," "The First Year," 'Bachelor's Affairs" and 'Wild Girl."

Baby Contest Tuesday At West Coast

Whose baby is the healthiest in Santa Ana?

The most robust of them all will be selected in a baby contest to be staged at the Fox West Coast theater next Tuesday afternoon, when a special matinee will be shown featuring the picture, "Life Begins," which opens Fonday at the West Coast.

Mothers will bring their babies, up to two years of age, and three judges will select the three healthiest babies from the stage. Handsome prizes are offered for the three winners, and every mother in the house during the afternoon will be presented with a photograph of her baby, these pictures to be made through the courtesy of Larry Rundell, well known Santa Ana photographer.

Genevieve Tobin Gets New Contract

Genevieve Tobin, stage and screen star has been signed to a long term Fox contract, and her first assignment is the leading role in "Pleasure Cruise," opposite Norman Foster, which Sidney Lanfield is to direct. "Pleasure Cruise" is being adapted for the screen from the stage play of that name by Austen Allen.

Miss Tobin was last seen on the screen in the Maurice Chevalier picture, "One Hour With You." Her other important picture roles have been in "Seed" and "The Gay Diplomat."

POSTPONE MEETING

ORANGETHORPE, Nov. 5.—On account of the death of the mother of Mrs. Gladys Head, principal of Orangethorpe school, the meeting of the Orangethorpe Parent-Teacher association has been postponed to November 10, at 2:30 o'clock.

MYSTERY FILM, AND VAUDEVILLE AT WEST COAST

With five acts of vaudeville which many who saw last night claim the best the theater has produced in the past several weeks, together with the new picture, "The Last Man," starring Charles Bickford, entertainment of the highest order is assured for the Fox West Coast theater for the week end.

The program started last night and plays through Sunday night. A review of it last night, leaves the impression of a well balanced show throughout, a splendid picture of adventure and mystery which all the family can see, together with five acts of snappy vaudeville as dessert.

The vaudeville acts include that famous Spanish clown "Pepito," who has shown here before and therefore is well known in Santa Ana, The Four Dells, song and dance review, Manuel Valencia in "Flying High," Irving Rose, dancing comedian, who also is back in Santa Ana after a four-year absence, and Pat West and Del Chain, comedy funsters.

The entire bill is a "family" bill, one that should prove highly entertaining for all kinds of Santa Anans over the week end.

The picture concerns the activities of a marine detective who hunts his quarry on the seven seas. There is a murder mystery, romance and robbery, daring escapes and much action before he lands the gang he is after.

JANET GAYNOR, FARRELL SIGN FOR NEW FILM

Fox Film corporation has purchased the film rights to "Paddy-The-Next-Best-Thing," and will produce this delightful romance of a little Irish country girl with Janet Gaynor in the leading role. William K. Howard, who directed Miss Gaynor and her co-star, Charles Farrell, in their recent production, "The First Year," will direct "Paddy," which is to be adapted from the play written by W. Gayer MacGay and Robert Ord from the novel of Gertrude Page

Miss Gaynor and Farrell are now making the final scenes of "Tess of The Storm Country," under the direction of Alfred Santell, and upon the completion of that picture, Miss Gaynor will immediately assume her role in the special Fox production, "State Fair."

While Miss Gaynor is making "State Fair," Director Howard will be in Ireland, studying the locale of "Paddy," and upon his return Miss Gaynor will be ready to start work in the new film.

Physician Talks On Eastern Trip

GARDEN GROVE, Nov. 5.—Dr A. C. Robbins was the speaker at the Lions club luncheon held at Ocean inn this week. Dr. Robbins, who has just returned from Indianapolis where he attended the international convention of the American College of Surgeons, gave an account of his trip and told of conditions in the east.

Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools, and E. M. "Sunny" Sundquist of Santa Ana were visitors.

L. W. Schauer presided in the absence of the president, Ray Johnson, who is ill.

"REBECCA" AT WALKER STATE; OPENS SUNDAY

Rebecca, the imaginative little girl whose name came out of Ivanhoe and who lived at Sunnybrook Farm, has long been the favorite role of the greatest stars of the stage. For the modern Fox sound version of the immortal classic, to be shown at Walker's State theater beginning Sunday, Marian Nixon, whose personality has carried her to new screen heights, was chosen to portray the character that to millions is symbolic of optimism.

Director Alfred Santell recreated the renowned Farm of Sunnybrook in the present production just as it appeared in the pages of the original book, in the picturesque sleepy farming country near Santa Cruz, California.

The plot deals with the experiences of an imaginative, impulsive girl who leaves her beloved Sunnybrook to live with her elderly maiden aunts, the very pillars of respectability in a Maine village. Her penchant for adopting everybody's troubles wins the immediate disapproval of the aunts but strikes quickly at the heart and sympathy of Dr. Adam Ladd, who befriends her from her first day in the village.

Bellamy Has Male Lead

Ralph Bellamy, tall, blue-eyed leading man of many recent Fox successes, portrays the kindly, understanding character of Dr. Ladd, while Mae Marsh, who recently renewed her screen career in "Over the Hill," is seen as Aune Jane, the younger and more sympathetic of the two aunts. Aunt Miranda, whose hard-shelled surface of New England reserve is the last to be won over by Rebecca's irresistible personality, is faithfully enacted by Louise Closser Hale in what is said to be her best performance to date.

Other characters of note in the picture are Alan Hale, as the eccentric radical; Sarah Padden, the kind-hearted woman who wants to adopt the child; Ronald Harris, lovable two-year-old who nearly steals the picture in his first screen role, and scores of others.

'STRICTLY PERSONAL' NEW COMEDY FILM

Plans are underway today to team Alison Skipworth and Richard Bennett, fun partners in "Madame Racketeer," in "Strictly Personal," original story by Wilson Mizner and Robert T. Shannon which Harry Joe Brown will direct for Paramount.

CHAVALIER IN NEW LOVE DRAMA SOON

"The Way to Love," original story by Waldemar Young, has been selected for Maurice Chevalier's first Paramount starring picture following his return to Hollywood from a summer vacation in France. The star of "Love Me Tonight" sails from France on the Ile de France, November 2.

COMING SUNDAY

Harold Lloyd, who will be seen in his 1932 production "Movie Crazy" at the Fox Broadway theater Sunday. The picture will play here four days.

Election Results At FoxHouses

So that patrons of the Fox Broadway and the Fox West Coast theaters here can have their entertainment and listen to the results of the Tuesday elections at the same time the management of both theaters announced today that special election service would be had at both theaters.

Through the Western Union Telegraph company, which will serve all the Fox theaters in Southern California on election night, results from a special leased wire will send telegrams at short intervals to the theaters giving eastern as well as California and coast results in the presidential race and other races.

The theaters also will add short subjects after the regular shows are ended and will probably keep open with news flashes as late as midnight, it was reported.

DOROTHY MACKAILL OPPOSITE GABLE

Dorothy Mackaill, who has just returned from a national personal appearance tour in film theaters, today was signed by Paramount to appear with Clark Gable and Miriam Hopkins in "No Man of Her Own," which Wesley Ruggles will direct. Other new additions to the cast are Grant Mitchell, Elizabeth Patterson and George Barbier.

NEW GERMAN STAR ARRIVES IN HOLLYWOOD

Lilian Harvey, international screen star, who will arrive in this country from Germany within the next few weeks, will have as her first American screen role the lead in the Fox picture, "His Majesty's Car." Opposite Miss Harvey will be seen John Boles, with El Brendel in another featured part.

Miss Harvey recently scored a sensational success in "Congress Dances," which she made in German, English and French, and which won her a Fox contract. Henri Garat, who played opposite her, has also been signed by Fox.

"His Majesty's Car," written by the Hungarian playwright, Attila von Orbok, and first presented on the Broadway stage with Miriam Hopkins and Theodore St. John in the leading roles, is being adapted for the screen by Hans Kraly. William Kernell will write the lyrics for the musical score.

Carol Lombard Gets Leading Role

Carole Lombard has been assigned the leading feminine role in Paramount's "Billion Dollar Scandal." Other major roles will be carried by Robert Armstrong, James Gleason, Olga Baclanova, Irving Pichel, Warren Hymer, Berton Churchill, Frank Albertson and Frank Morgan.

HAROLD LLOYD IN 1ST COMEDY IN TWO YEARS

"Movie Crazy," Harold Lloyd's new comedy, with Constance Cummings, opens its local engagement at the Fox Broadway theater Sunday and before the end of the week, it is probable that about everybody in town will be in the same state as the boy in the film—literally and unbashedly movie crazy.

For the comedian has made a film comparable in hilarity only to "Grandma's Boy" and "The Freshman," perhaps the top-notchers of his efforts in the silent days To the best that was in those pictures add new gags, advanced film technique, a finer performance by the star, and a supporting cast, headed by Constance Cummings, which is far superior to any with which Lloyd has surrounded himself in the past, and you will have some idea of the caliber of this latest laugh riot.

Lloyd has paced his comedy so fost and multiplied the gags in such rapid succession, that the audience does not have time to recover from one laugh before going off into another. The reception in honor of the producer's wife, a sequence in which Lloyd shares honors with Louise Closser Hale and others, will surely go down in Lloyd history as the funniest thing the comedian has ever produced.

In addition to its hysterically funny gags, "Movie Crazy" tells a human story of a movie-struck boy who tries his luck in Hollywood and makes good. Moreover, it takes the audience back stage in the movie studios and gives a good many glimpses of the way pictures are made.

Miss Cummings is easily the best leading woman Lloyd has had in a long time. She adds much to the excellence of the picture, as do Mrs. Hale, Kenneth Thompson and the other members of the supporting cast.

GEORGE RAFT CAST IN NEW PICTURE

George Raft, whose first screen lead was in "Night After Night" and who now heads the cast of "Under-Cover Man," today was assigned the stellar role in a Paramount picture tentatively titled "The Trumpet Blows," an original screen play for which Oliver H. P. Garrett is preparing. It will follow "Pick Up" with Sylvia Sidney and proves no dirth of material on Raft's program.

Quilt and Rug Exhibit Dates Are Named by Ebell Section

For many weeks past, members of Ebell's Sixth Household Economics section have been making quiet plans and arranging for special features in connection with their second annual exhibition of old fashioned quilts and hand made rugs, which they have announced for four days in November, beginning on Tuesday, November 15, in Ebell clubhouse.

Memories of the unqualified success which attended their exhibit last year, return to spur this group of indefatigable women on to even greater efforts than were made at that time, and Mrs. G. E. Bruns, section leader, and Mrs. H. B. Heil, general chairman in charge of plans, may be excused for thinking that the exhibit promises to be one of the major undertakings of the club year.

"There has been such a revival of interest in this art of our grandmothers, and Santa Ana boasts some of the handsomest quilts to be found any place, so why shouldn't we place them on display in order to share their beauty and their exquisite needlework with appreciative friends?" Mrs. Heil pointed out today when questioned regarding her plans.

In these she is being assisted by Mrs. E. E. Keech, Mrs. L. C. Fairbanks, and Mrs H. T. Trueblood, as a general committee, in addition to all the women of the section.

Anyone possessing quilts or rugs of unusual design, workmanship or history, is invited to co-operate with the clubwomen in the display, as adequate protection will be offered all articles entrusted to the care of section members for the four days of the exhibition. This applies to all departments, whether the articles be among quilts, coverlets and hand woven articles, or among the rugs.

Classifications under which quilts may be shown include those 100 years or more old; appliqued, embroidered, cotton patchwork and baby quilts, those made by extremely old people and hand woven coverlets. Rug classifications include braided, hooked and crocheted varieties, all hand work.

Practically the only rules governing the entries are that they shall be at the clubhouse on Monday, November 14, as section women will be there from 10 o'clock in the morning until 4 p. m., to receive the articles.

Much the same plan of displaying them will be put into effect that proved successful last year, that is suspending the majority of quilts from the picture molding and down the center of the peacock room.

The exhibit will be open to the public on each of the four afternoons, November 15, 16, 17 and 18, from 1 o'clock to 5, and on the evening of Thursday, the closing day. A very nominal admission will be asked to the affair, all proceeds to be added to the section's general club fund.

Young Violin Artist To Be Presented In Recital

Santa Ana music lovers who felt that they were well rewarded when they motored into Los Angeles last spring to hear Miss Helen Tannenbaum in a violin recital in Baldwin hall, will be interested in the announcement that Miss Tannenbaum is to appear in recital in Ebell clubhouse on Tuesday night, November 22, the first of a group of Southland concerts which she will present through the early winter months.

This young artist is gifted far beyond her years, according to critics, who find the combination of her youth (she is but 15 years of age) and her masterly technique and understanding, a provocative and alluring one. Miss Tannenbaum had her early training under Elwood Bear of this city, and more recently has been studying under Josef Borissoff of Los Angeles, a Russian artist and teacher of note.

Her opening concert in this city will be followed by a recital in December in the Los Angeles Biltmore, and others in San Diego, Santa Barbara, Fresno, and it is possible that her tour will extend as far north as San Francisco. Future plans embrace a concert tour of the eastern states in another year.

Miss Helen is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Tannenbaum, 2404 Santiago street. She has appeared on many programs locally and her approaching recital will have as accompanist, Everard Stovall, pianist, another of the young artists of whom Santa Ana is justly proud.

Program plans for the musical event include the four violin groups, opening with a Cesar Franck Sonata. This will be followed by Concerto in D major by Paganini-Wilhelm; Ernest Bloch's "Boolshem," in a third group of four numbers including also "Tamborin Chinois" by Kreisler; "La Fille aux Cheveux de Lun" by Debussy, and "Introduction et Tarantelle" by Saint-Saens, and closing with the fourth group of two numbers, "Caprice Viennois" by Kreisler and "Chorus of Dervishes" by Beethoven-Auer.

One of the merriest of the week's Hallowe'en parties was given by Mrs. James Eudaly and Miss Jo Herman who entertained in the home of Mrs. Eudaly's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Bermann, 122 South Birch street.

A seasonal setting was given the affair by lighted jack o'lanterns and large bouquets of yellow an golden brown chrysanthemums, arranged throughout the rooms. The evening was spent in playing court whist. Mrs. George Burroughs, scoring high and Miss Mary Eudaly, scoring low, received attractive awards prettily wrapped in white and tied with fluffy orange and black bows.

At the refreshment hour, guests were bidden to the dining room, where the table was appointed in Hallowe'en colors. Jack o'lanterns and tapers lighted the scene, and favors were party hats, confetti and other holiday favorites. Cider, large red apples and cookies and ginger bread with whipped cream, nuts were served.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. George Burroughs of Fullerton; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lancaster, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Blower, the Misses Mary Eudaly, Evelyn Chandler and Milicent Bermann; Messrs. Harry Harper and John Secrest and Mr. and Mrs. James Eudaly and Miss Jo Herman.

THESE FOUR ATTRACTIVE GIRLS HAVE BEEN ORANGE COUNTY OCTOBER BRIDES

Mrs. Lawrence Farrar

Mrs. Maynard Beard

Mrs. George Thorpe

Mrs. Hansel Carter

MRS. LAWRENCE FARRAR

In their home at 611 Minter street, Santa Ana, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Farrar are greeting friends and receiving congratulations upon their recent wedding which occurred on October 22 in Yuma. Mrs. Farrar was Miss Helen Marie Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Baker of Orange, and Mr. Farrar is the son of Mrs. A. H. Farrar of Tustin. Their wedding was one of extreme simplicity in which they spoke their vows before the Rev. H. Brooke, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal church of Yuma. They returned almost immediately to receive the felicitations of their families, and to establish a home in this city that Mr. Farrar might be near his ranch interests in Tustin. He is a graduate of Tustin high school and his bride followed her completion of the Orange high school course with attendance at Santa Ana junior college.

MRS. MAYNARD BEARD

Arousing the interest of countless friends was the marriage in Placentia on Saturday night, October 29, of Miss Ione Olive Wagner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Wagner of that community, to Maynard D. Beard, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Beard of Whittier. The beautiful home rites climaxed an engagement interval that has been marked by many charming courtesies extended the popular young Placentia girl by her campus friends at University of California at Los Angeles, as well as those of Fullerton high school and junior college. The happy young couple are honeymooning at Lake Arrowhead, but will return to make their home in Whittier Mr. Beard, a graduate of Fullerton junior college and Whittier college, is with the Murphy Ranch company.

MRS. GEORGE THORPE

Quite a charming romance was interwoven with the marriage on Tuesday, October 25, of Miss Lillian Neumann, daughter of H. C. Neumann of Orange, and George Thorpe, prominent young executive in the Calavo Growers' association with offices in Philadelphia where he is branch manager. For while friends have been aware of the betrothal of the young people for several months, no one was expecting the wedding as an autumn event. But Mr. Thorpe's recent arrival from the east and the necessity of an early return to Philadelphia, crystallized their plans, and he persuaded his lovely fiancee to advance the wedding date and return east with him. The ceremony was one of the many beautiful rites that have given the name of "bride chapel" to the new chapel of the First M. E. church of this city. Mr. and Mrs. Thorpe left for a leisurely eastern trip, planning to visit Kansas City, Chicago, Pittsburgh and New York City before establishing themselves in Philadelphia.

MRS. HANSEL CARTER

The last Sunday in October was chosen as a wedding date by Miss Claudyne Hone, daughter of Mrs. C. A. Williams of Lucadia, and Hansel Carter, son of Mrs. J. F. Carter of Fullerton, and the happy young people are to make their home in Los Angeles until Mr. Carter completes his course in dentistry at U. S. C. His bride is well known throughout Orange county, and had made her home in La Habra for several years. The marriage took place in the Los Angeles home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Cornell, and prior to its date, the bride-elect was honoree at several parties given by various friends including a charming announcement tea at which Miss Mildred Anderson of La Habra was hostess.

B.-P. W. Amalgamation To Be Complete in January, 1933

Plans for the amalgamation of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs with the California League of Business and Professional Women were completed this week following a two-day conference attended by representatives of the merging groups at the Women's Athletic club in Los Angeles. This consolidation, which will bring to the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs a state body unique in being the oldest and largest in the union, will be consummated January 1, 1933. News of this progress will be of special interest to members of the Santa Ana B.-P.W. club, who have participated in discussions concerning this move at conferences extending over a lengthy period. Further details concerning the amalgamation probably will be made available to the local women at the district board meeting at U.C.L.A. which Santa Ana representatives will attend Saturday, November 12.

Retaining the name of the California Federation of Business and Professional Women's clubs, the merged group will be led by officers of the two former organizations, with Miss Winifred Frye, Santa Barbara, serving as president. Twenty-four directors, besides officers, will be selected at the time of actual consolidation, in January. An organization of approximately 120 clubs and 6000 members, the federation will be divided into six districts, each separately officered. The districts will be known as Northern, Bay, Central, Los Angeles county, Coast and Southern.

Fourteen Friends Share Birthday Party of Five Year Old

Gifts graciously prepared for Young Billy Menton, five year old son of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Menton of Riverside drive on his fifth birthday anniversary by Mrs. C. J. Gibboney and Mrs. C. F. Cheney made the birthday observance an especially happy one.

Plans Announced for Open House on Anniversary

Celebrating the anniversary of their wedding day of November 8, 1882, back in Bourbon county, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. Robert I. Howard of Costa Mesa, plan to welcome their friends informally all afternoon and evening on Tuesday of next week, after a midday dinner at which they will entertain their children, grandchildren and other relatives who will gather from far and near to be present at the golden wedding.

Memories will be recalled of that day half a century ago when Miss Alice Anderson was wedded to Robert Howard in her parents' home near Bronson, Kansas. Succeeding years were spent in that vicinity until 1907 when Mr. and Mrs. Howard came to California, locating almost immediately in Orange county where they have made their home ever since.

Among the relatives expected to be present Tuesday are their four sons with their wives and families. These include Arthur N. Howard of Los Angeles; Fred Howard of Anaheim, and his twin brother Frank, of Gilroy, and Jack Howard of Taft. There will be eight grandchildren in all. A son-in-law and daughter are expected from Lander, Wyo., and Mr. Howard's sister, Mrs. Mary Rodeheaver of Los Angeles, who was a guest at the wedding 50 years ago, and who is related to the singing evangelist of the same name, will be here.

Afternoon and evening hours will be given over to greeting friends and neighbors to whom informal invitations has been extended and share in the happy occasion.

Sewing Group Stages Children's Party

Children's frocks and hair ribbons were in plentiful evidence Thursday night in the home of Miss Miriam Adamson, 1017 North Ross street, when members of the Stitch and Chatter club gathered there for a "kid party" which resulted in a hilarious evening. An abundance of holly was used in decoration.

Greeted by the hostess, similarly attired, guests were called upon soon after their arrival to answer roll call by reciting school pranks of their own experience. Opinion was divided on the best costume displayed, when guests formed a parade, with the result that Mrs. Ralph Crane and Mrs. Josie Antisdel were compelled to divide a single stick of peppermint candy. A "pencil game" and other contests followed.

Refreshments were brought in in paper sacks, reminiscent of school lunches, each containing sandwiches and a doughnut, while coffee was passed on trays. Before leaving guests inspected the butterfly quilts which their group made last year. The club will meet next with Mrs. Josie Antisdel, 412 Halesworth street.

Attending the party were Mesdames W. W. Adamson, Josie Antisdel, Harold Bishop, Ralph Crane, Harold Johnson, J. H. House, E. J. Naish, Starr Ozment, Walter Ozment, Belle Rogers, Charles Ryan, Hattie Wall, Allie Ward, J. F. Weekly, Miss Donna Mae Dawson, Donald Bishop, Billy Ryan, and a guest, Mrs. Craig.

Retiring President Complimented at Luncheon

As the official year of the women's auxiliary to Ernest Kellogg post No. 1690, V. F. W., draws to a close when Mrs. J. V. Kelsey resigns the presidency after having served through two years, members of the official board recognized the excellence of her two years' record by making Mrs. Kelsey the honoree at a delightful luncheon given this week.

Pythian hall, where the auxiliary holds its sessions, was chosen as setting for the luncheon, but lost its identity as a lodge room and became for the occasion, a delightfully home-like spot. Palms and ferns had been banked as a background amidst which gleamed many bright flowers. In this floral bower, the table set for a delectable luncheon menu, was especially effective. The centerpiece was formed of persimmons, grapes and other vivid fruits heaped in a large ebon bowl, and flanked by orange candles in black candlesticks.

At each place, accompanying Hallowe'en nut cups and place cards, was a beautiful corsage bouquet of sweet peas. These were placed for the honor guest, Mrs. Kelsey, and the hostesses, Mrs. Faye Meister, senior vice president; Mrs. Effie Hawley, junior vice president; Mrs. Phoebe Hyatt, secretary; Miss Minnie Besser, treasurer; Mesdames Lida Kincaid, patriotic instructor; Azora Area, historian; Mary Adrain, musician; Zilpha Pearson, conductress; Anna Sullivan, guard; Katherine Reagan, Clara Doran, Edna Camm and Ella Charles, colors; and two additional guests, Mrs. William Besser and Mrs. W. C. Leichtfuss, formerly Miss Martha Kelsey, daughter of the honor guest.

As a climax to the happy affair, the officers joined in presenting to Mrs. Kelsey, a handsome floor lamp to serve as a memento of two happy years, and in her affecting response, she spoke of what the two years had meant to her personally in having strengthened bonds of friendship, expressing her feelings with a bit of beautiful original verse.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH.

A DELIGHTFUL BY-PRODUCT

I knew I was forgetting something when I told you recently how many things could be done with a large piece of good steak. I overlooked the nice big piece of beef suet that came along with the steak - - - suet we will use right now and here in making a sumshus steamed fruit pudding, fluffy and rich.

STEAM PUDDING

2 eggs beaten with
½ cup sugar and
½ teaspoon each of cloves, nutmeg and cinnamon
2 scant teaspoons ginger
1 scant teaspoon salt
1 cup sour milk
1 cup black cooking molasses
3 cups sifted flour
1 level teaspoon soda
1½ cups seedless raisins
1 cup finely chopped suet

Put the sugar in the mixing bowl, add the spices and salt, then the eggs and whip well. If the suet has been well chilled it can be put through the food grinder, then broken up by rubbing it with the fingers after a little of the flour has been sifted over it. Wash and drai nthe raisins and drop them at once into the measured, sifted flour. Add the molasses and floured suet to the egg mixtures, then stir the soda into the sour milk and alternate the mixing, using flour (with the raisins in it), then sour milk, until everything is in the pudding.

Have a good-sized mould well buttered and a small one—a pound can of some sort with tight lids for both. Fill two-thirds full, adjust lids and steam over, or in, boiling water for three hours. Serve with preferred sauce. The small pudding can be re-heated for another dessert, it won't spoil i na hurry if kept covered and cool.

Wedding Anniversary Inspires Friendly Dinner Party

Celebrating the third wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dill was a pleasant little dinner party given early in the week by Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jungkeit, 1226 West Fourth street.

Suggesting the wedding of three years ago were the pastel colors of the flowers gracing the table, which was arrangeed beneath a festooned canopy of pink and white garlands drapped from the corners of the room to a chandelier above. Centering the table was a three-tiered wedding cake surmounted by a tiny bride and groom. Mrs. Jungkeit was assisted in serving the menu by Mrs. Underwood.

Covers were laid for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs Jungkeit, their complimented guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dill, Mr. and Mrs. Moody Schrock, Mr. and Mrs. Basil Underwood, and Mrs. Charles Buck.

Immediately after the dinner hour, additional interest was loaned by the shower of pretty anniversary gifts presented Mr. and Mrs. Dill, and their recollections of their wedding three years ago in Arkansas, followed by their early departure for California. The remainder of the evening was given over to a social program in which Hallowe'en spooks played a prominent and merry part.

Family Group Arranges Dinner for Wedding Anniversary

Two young matrons of Westminster, Mrs. Ray Finley and Mrs. Loyal Skinner, co-operated with their aunts, Mrs. C. E. Gilmore of Wintersburg and Mrs. Elmer Blake of Santa Ana in planning a dinner party and musical evening Wednesday, as a surprise for their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith, of 710 East Sixth street, in observance of their 48th wedding anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith had been hosts at an At Home in the afternoon and were too busy greeting friends and relatives to notice the confusion pertaining to the evening's preparations going on next door at the Blake home so the surprise was a complete one.

The dinner guests included Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Blake and their children, Junior and Norma Lee Blake of Santa Ana; Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Gilmore and children, Elroy and Doris Ann Gilmore of Wintersburg; Mr. and Mrs. Loyal Skinner and two daughters, Loya May and Georgia Skinner, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Finley and daughter, Charlene, of Westminster.

Pleasant Hospitality Extended Service Club Members

In gathering yesterday afternoon for a monthly affair, members of the 25 Year Service club of the W. R. C. shared the hospitality of Mrs. Hannah Huntington's home, 907 South Main street. Seventeen members were present for the happy occasion.

The hostess had arranged many bouquets of flowers for decorations, including chrysanthemums and carnations. In a bean guessing contest, Mrs. Viola Fipps received a clever box of potholders, designed as oranges, for her reward.

In serving refreshments, the hostess had the asisstance of her daughter, Mrs. Raymond Ross. Guests were seated at two large tables, where buttered hot rolls and homemade jam were served with pumpkin pie and roasted walnuts. Bowls of fruit and fall foliage were used for decorations.

Mrs. Asa Vandermast will be hostess at the next meeting of the club, to be held Thursday, December 1.

Mrs. Elizabeth McLeod was admitted to the 25 Year Service club as a new member at this week's meeting.

SERGE PROKOFIEFF

By RUTH ANDREWS

One of the most celebrated among contemporary composers of Russia, that birthplace which has cradled so many gifted creative artists, is Serge Prokofieff, whose modernistic works have excited world wide comment during the past several years. Indeed, Prokofieff has enjoyed such a wide vogue of popularity here in America, that he has returned year after year, to make new friends, and add to former triumphs.

During the current season this versatile composer is scheduled for another return visit to the United States, and plans to appear in many leading cities in numerous piano recitals composed of his own works, as well as in the equally demanding roles of orchestra soloist and guest conductor. In each of these varying phases of musical activity Prokofieff has an established reputation, especially in the foremost centers of Europe.

Only last season Prokofieff visited Los Angeles under the auspices of the local branch of the Pro Musica society, during a transcontinental series of appearances, which he made here in America. This experience was followed by an extensive period spent in concertizing throughout Europe, and included many successful appearances in such German music centers as Brussells, Liege and Mannheim. In the latter city, the young Russian made his German debut as an orchestral conductor, adding to the laurels he had previously won as a creative writer.

Born in 1891, Prokofieff's musical training was received while Russia was still under the Imperial rule. He had already made early efforts at composition prior to the Revolution. During that turbulent period some of these youthful creative works were destroyed at the hands of the Revolutionists, but have since been reconstructed again from original sketches, which were fortunately preserved.

Even as a youth at the Petrograd Conservatory, where he studied musical composition under the famous Russian composer, Anatole Liadove, and where he won the Rubenstein Prize in 1910, Prokofieff's early creative achievements betrayed his strong futuristic leanings. During the eventful score of years which has followed, naturally his creative ideals have undergone an inevitable evolution, and have clarified to a marked degree, so that he now strives for a greater simplicity of expression than he did previously.

Fairly prolific in his accomplishments as a composer, Prokofieff has to his credit works in many varied musical forms, which include several symphonies for full piano orchestra, a Sinfonietta, several piano concertos, which have enjoyed a wide vogue, piano sonatas, numerous instrumental works and lesser piano sketches. Nor has he neglected the field of dramatic writing, having achieved considerable attention as a result of his several operas, one of the most sensational of which was the novelty, "The Love of Three Oranges", which has been produced here in America, creating quite a sensation at the time.

Prokofieff's other operas include "The Gambler", a four-act work founded on a story of like name by the famous Russian writer, Dostoievsky, with its text written by the composer; also "The Flaming Angel" after a text by Valery Brussof, the Russian poet who perished during the revolution.

Prokofieff's most recent work, composed this past year, is a new concerto for piano, with orchestral accompaniment. It will be given its initial American hearing this winter with the Boston Symphony orchestra, under the baton of Serge Koussevitzky, who has engaged Prokofieff to play the solo part with the orchestra twice in Boston, twice in New York, and once in Brooklyn. It is stated that the composer will also present this new work with the Chicago Symphony orchestra during the current season.

Lina Lubera, (Mme Serge Prokofieff) and a singer of note, plans to accompany her husband on his visit to America this winter. Also a talented artist, Mme. Lubera recently appeared as soloist in a Paris production of Prokofieff's new work, "The Ugly Duckling."

To Honor Late Conductor

The late Lieutenant Commander John Philip Sousa, most famous of band conductors, as well as a former American composer of note, is to be honored by nation-wide celebrations of the anniversary of his birthday, on Sunday, November 6.

Many school bands throughout the nation are planning to offer special concert programs in tribute to Sousa, who during recent years did a great deal to foster the development of school bands here in America, often acting as judge and guest conductor in various national school band concerts and contests, and as an advisory member of the Music Supervisors' National Conference.

Celebrate Damrosch Centenary

The one hundredth anniversary of the birth of Leopold Damrosch, celebrated conductor, who came to America from Breslau, Germany, during the pioneer days of American music, was recently celebrated by Damrosch's two noted sons, Walter and Frank, now prominent in contemporary American music circles, together with other members of the Damrosch family.

The Damrosch migration significantly affected the course of msuic not only in New York City, but throughout America, since the pioneer work of Leopold Damrosch, in the field of choral, orchestral and operatic music, and his energetic efforts in forwarding the interests of the then modern composers, such as Berlioz, Liszt and Wagner, was of profound influence upon the progress of our national musical life.

"Nothing is so educational as fine music," according to Chicago school leaders.

Sensational entertainments are being planned, many of which will be broadcast throughout the nation, within the near future.

BRING MOUNTAIN TWILIGHT

By Geraldine MacLeod

The feel of twilight in the air tonight
Has let me dream horizons of high rock—
And in my feet a tipping silver flock
Nor scorns salt-water ways and screams for height,
Veering and seeking in an anguished flight
The cold and quiet regions of the hawk:
They strive up sky. I climbing with them walk
The sea-slope downward into sudden night.

Oh cling to the long twilights of your days
Among the mountains as those twilights cling
To the great granite crags! The black and blaze
Of sea and desert wait you here. Oh bring Enough of those wide twilights in your heart
To hold your night from shutting us apart.

BOOK REVIEWS

By MARY BURKE KING

Heat Lightning by Helen Hull, published by Coward McCann.

In the book "Heat Lightning" a group of characters is made more alive because of death and fear and hatred. The story is composed of trivial and tragic and important affairs in a rather large family.

One or two of the characters are idealistic, the troublesome affairs are more excessive than the average, even in these times of depression, but when the achievement is adequate we forgive an author minor errors of overemphasis. There emerges from the story an accentuation of the family relationship and the values therein — values and satisfactions even in harassing responsibilities.

Post-war young people were impatient of all bonds. They were all for breaking away, being free. There is a backward swing from the philosophy of those days. It crops up in more than one novel and "Heat Lightning" is in a list of such books.

The story embraces the events of one brief summer when Amy fled from the city, from Geoffrey her husband and the menacing shadows of estrangement and misunderstanding, to the small town of her parents and the Westover clan, to her mother who didn't run away from things. Out of the family drama which Amy watched that summer she gained maturity and a direction for her own problems.

Grandmother Westover is the strongest character in the book. She is the one who never shirks her responsibility to the individual members of the family and the family name. She is the "tower of strength."

There is good philosophy expressed in the book. It is Grandmother Westover who tells Amy this interesting thing she learned: "A lifetime's too short to find your way about another's heart, without blunderings and mistakes. That's why these folks nowadays are so foolish, rushing into marriage, out of it, into another. They never do anything but make a beginning, and then make the same beginning again. They think there's nothing else, besides that crazy excitement at the first."

Education and the Modern World by Bertrand Russell, published by W. W. Norton & Company, Inc.

Mr. Bertrand Russell has a following, therefore his book will be read and talked about. Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand Russell have a school for children so that anything he has to say on education is devoid of the taint of pure theory.

The one who is not professionally interested in education may be a bit repulsed by the discussion in the forepart of the book of the old, old controversy of education for citizenship versus the education of the individual. Bearing with him through that section one arrives at some chapters on education which are noteworthy, not so much for originality as for sanity and clarity.

Particularly interesting to Americans is his criticism of English education. In the novel "Broome Stages" there was a terrible indictment of the English practice of tearing young boys away from their womenfolk and sending them to harsh schools. One was conscious in reading that section of the novel in which that material was more or less extraneous that it was an echo of a real controversy going on in England among people concerned with education. Mr. Russell is equally disapproving though with a thinker there is always the presentation of the "on the other hand" business.

That section of the book is particularly good ballast for those people who reverence English education. Mr. Russell sees in all education in England and the continent, everywhere he says except North and South America a tendency to over educate until imagination and intellect is damaged. "Able young post-graduates in America," he continues, "seldom have the breadth of culture or the sheer extent of erudition that is to be found in the same class in Europe, but they have a love of knowledge, an enthusiasm for research, and a freshness of intellectual initiative, which in Europe have usually given place to a bored and cynical correctness. To learn without ceasing to love learning is difficult, and of this difficulty European educators haven't found the solution."

There is a chapter on religion in education which is particularly thought-provoking and another on propaganda in education. Propaganda in education is inevitable. "The question for the educator," he says, "is not whether there shall be propaganda, but how much, how organized, and of what sort; also whether, at some stage during education, an attempt should be made to free boys and girls, as far as possible, from the influence of propaganda by teaching them methods of arriving at impartial judgments." "Competition in Education" and "Patriotism" in education are two chapters which many, many people would profit by reading even if not enjoy reading.

Van Loon's Geography, the Story of the World We Live In, by Hendrik Willem Van Loon, published by Simon and Schuster.

One is reminded of the old song "Oh to be a child again" when one reads this book of Hendrik Van Loon's. What a privilege to arrive at one's understanding of the countries and peoples of the world through this geography!

Mr. Duffus in the New York Times Book Review says that the only advantage which the old flat geography book had over this book is that a thriller could be concealed behind the screen formed by those old geographies whereas this one of Van Loon's is too fat. But it is not disadvantage for one wouldn't yearn for a thriller when reading this book.

It is a book that a child doesn't outgrow for adults will read it with equal interest and as the child mind develops into the adult mind he will understand and appreciate parts of the book which he could not at first.

Anything that is at all influenced by children has a unique appeal so that we find that this geography has a whimsical charm. It has kinship in its personality with "Alice in Wonderland" for it is a book that children will love and adults appreciate.

It is important that Mr. Van Loon in his geography emphasizes the people of the earth. For authority in this particular he quotes the definition for the word geography in the Oxford dictionary. But it is so perfectly right that man should be so emphasized that one doesn't care particularly about authority. He places man at the center of the stage.

"This book of mine," he says, "will not merely discuss the surface of the earth and its physical features, together with its political and natural boundaries. I would rather call it a study of man in search of food and shelter and leisure for himself and for his family and an attempt to find out the way in which man has either adapted himself to his background or has reshaped his physical surroundings in order to be as comfortable and well nourished and happy as seemed compatible with his own limited strength." With so important a subject matter coupled with Mr. Van Loon's rare and happy faculty for interesting us with the curious it could not but command adult respect and interest and in the majority of cases enthusiasm.

The appeal of the book is enhanced by the illustrations by the author himself. One can't be quite sensible about Van Loon's geography.

Martinelli Began Musical Career After Army Duty

Giovanni Martinelli, who will give a recital at Philharmonic auditorium, Los Angeles, on Tuesday evening, November 8, was the oldest of 14 children. The father was opposed to his son giving up a good living as a cabinet maker for an uncertain career on the stage.

It was an officer in the regiment in which young Giovanni was filling the customary European term of military service who was really responsible for Martinelli's choice of an operatic career. He heard the young man singing to himself one day and insisted that with such a voice his musical success was assured.

When his father had finally consented, Giavanni went to Milan where he studied under Prof. Mandolini and made his first public appearance in "Stabat Mater" on December 3, 1910. A fortnight later he made his operatic debut in "Ernani."

CLAREMONT PLAYERS OPERA IN OPENING

Opening last evening at the Little Theater in Padua Hills, "Priscilla and John Alden," a light opera in three acts, is presented by the Claremont Community Players as their second play of the 1932-33 season. The opera was written by Dr. Henry Purmort Eames and Dr. Hartley Burr Alexander, both professors at Scripps college. tOher dates for the production are November 5 at 2:30 and 8:30 and November 11 and 12 at 8:30, with a matinee on November 12.

Dr. Alexander, author of the libretto, writes of the opera as follows: "'Priscilla and John Alden' is decidedly musical comedy, with accent on the musical. The story, which every American knows, is inevitable with humor, and it fairly tells itself into comedy. Henry Purmort Eames is the composer, and he has handled the various motifs of the plot — the pomposities of Captain Standish, the solemnities of the Pilgrims, the awkward-age sentiment of John Alden, the absurdities of Tom Tinker, and the village-maiden keenness of the first New World damsels at work upon this male material — with a deftness, playfulness, and joyousness of melody which quite explains why the Bispham medal for American opera came to him for this work."

Plan First Music Association Event In Early December

Dr. Herbert A. Johnston, president of the Civic Music association of Orange county, received the officers and directors of that organization at his home in Anaheim Thursday evening when plans were laid for the completion of the county membership campaign of the association.

Following a report by the secretary, Clarence Gustlin, the meeting was addressed by the Pacific coast representative of Civic Concerts Service, inc., of Chicago, Arthur W. Manuel.

Particular reference was made to the Tulare-Kings counties Civic Music association, comprising eight communities. It was voted to adopt their local committee plan of organization, the chairmen of which committees become members of the county executive board.

It was voted to hold the opening concert event of the local association early in December, the talent committee to meet at once and select the artist. A minimum of three nationally known artists is guaranteed to members, although an extra event will be added, provided the membership permits. Quality of attractions is not sacrificed to quantity under the Civic Music plan which also eliminates the possibility of deficits and assessments, an excellent reason for its successful functioning in more than 250 American cities and smaller communities officials say.

Members only are admitted to the concerts, no single admissions being available to Orange county residents.

PARIS LOVE

by NINA WILCOX PUTNAM

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING INSTALMENTS

At the death of Alacia Sayers' father ten years previously, her mother insisted on retaining the French motor car company he had started. The Europa was now known as the world's finest automobile, and the stubborn, fat, little middle-aged, mid-western woman who was Alacia's mother was worth $60,000,000. Going out one morning before Mrs. Sayers had returned from a round of Paris night life with the Smedleys, friends just over from America, Alacia took a Europa racing model out for a trial spin. In avoiding a ramshackle car, she ran into an embankment, and when her senses cleared she was in a field in the arms of the handsome young Frenchman who spoke cultured English. While waiting in a roadside inn for a telephone connection to summon a wrecking car they talked over coffee. Without Alacia's knowing just how it happened, she was in his arms and they kissed. It was love at first sight. As he drove her back to Paris in his wheezy flivver they talked of each other; his family was poor and he worked for a living; but they refused to see in this an obstacle to their love. Alacia was so surprised by the maudlin talk of the Smedleys whom she met at the door of her Bois de Boulogne home that the young man got away without her learning who he was. Alfredo Santini, a gigolo who was in constant attendance on her mother, told Alacia he was Alfred de Pas, Prince d'Orsant, pretender to the French throne.

INSTALMENT 3

At number 3 bis, Avenue des Champs Elysees, a marble palace of the late Second Empire had been transformed to accommodate the sales headquarters of the Europa car. The enormous show windows which gave so pleasantly on the wide beauty of the Avenue afforded an excellent view of the Arc de Triomphe while at the same time displaying a discreet choice of fabulously expensive motor cars to the passerby, and above the grey and silver expanse of these showrooms Alacia Sayers had established a little private office.

An hour after young Santini's amazing revelation about the Prince d'Orsant, she entered this office and found the last of the Grand Dukes Perwjoski with his heels on his desk and his nose in the newest copy of La Vie Parisienne. At sound of her entrance the grand duke dropped his reading matter and blushing like any guilty office-boy, swung his heels from the desk and clicked them together as he bowed a formal greeting.

"Good morning Valdy!" Alacia said gaily, the happiness of her morning's adventure still flooding her with a contagious good nature. "Is there anything in that paper I shouldn't see? If so, give it to me at once!" The Grand Duke Valdimir Alexis Perwjoski blushed again to the very roots of his rather thin brown hair, and unconsciously straightened his already perfect tie.

"I look merely at picture of a leetle dog by the so clever Djon!" he said. "In Russia I had, before the revolution, an original drawing by him. That was at my shooting-box at Dorsklov, on the Black Sea."

"Uhuh! I'll bet it was lovely!" said Alacia, generously for she was in a mood to tolerate even thin-worn reminiscences of Russia's former grandeur. After all Valdy was an awfully nice fellow and once the uncomfortable ordeal of offering a grand duke forty dolars a week had been got over with, she had found him a treasure. His social connections all over Europe and in England had proved invaluable in building up the prestige of the Europa's name and he was besides a veritable mine of information while the ruling of an important province had given him an executive training of no mean value. As she passed to her inner sanctum, Alacia laid a hand lightly on his shoulder in a comradely, affectionate fashion.

"Just a moment," she said, "and we'll have a conference. Send me in Miss Ducarte, will you?"

But when the swarthy little dactylo had displayed the morning's correspondence and been dismissed, Alacia sat across the desk from the Russian, suddenly realizing it was not about business that she wished to consult him. Let the details on that special body for the concourse d'Elegance at Cannes wait! Who really cared whether the young Emperor of Siam were carried to his coronation in a Europa or not? Who cared, even, if the straps around the great throbbing hood of the mighty racing model destined for the Grand Prix de Monaco were to be black or peagreen? She leaned across her desk impulsive and ager.

"Valdy, do you know the pretender to the French throne?" she asked, conscious of an uncontrollable flutter in her voice.

"Which one?" Baldy demanded unexpectedly.

"Are there more than one?"

"But naturally!" he said. "There is the Bourdon lot, I know them intimately, of course. Nice people. And then there are the Bonapartes, but tiens, they haven't a following. And d'Orsant."

"Do you know the Prince d'Orsant?" she asked, tensely.

"No, I don't know Armand de Pas personally," he said, "but of course I know about him in a general sort of a way. The house is poor, my dear! But utterly poverty-stricken! And yet young Armando actually refuses, to accept one penny from his adherents; an unheard of attitude! You see the trouble with the boy is, if you will forgive my saying so my dear —Alaciska, that he has some American blood in him, and of course this weakens his party; that and his own lack of active interest."

"What do you mean by that?" she asked. "Do you mean he doesn't want to be king?"

"My dear Alaciska, don't quote me as saying so!" The grand Duke protested. "But I must tell you right now, that if you are thinking to use any of these Royalists in an advertising way for the Europa, it is a bad business. Their endorsement will do more hurt than good. Remember they are only a small unpopular party in France, like we poor Russians!"

"I wasn't thinking of advertising, exactly," she admitted. "I—well, I'd heard of this Prince d'Orsant, that's all. What does he work at, do you know?" The grand duke shrugged.

"He occasionally drives a motor race I believe!" he said. "He even drove a wining Bugatti once at some big course d'auto. But ah! A thought! Here indeed you might use him for a publicity. If he drove for you, eh? At Monte Carlo? Personally $ think he might be better than your mother's selection of a driver!"

"My mother's selection!" exclaimed Alacia, her mind temporarily diverted by this new development. "But my mother has nothing to do with deciding who shall drive the Prix de Monaco! Neither have I, for that matter. That's up to the technical department."

"But Madame has made a selection!" insisted the Russian.

"Really?" Alacia demanded, bewildered. "Who on earth did she select?"

"Alfredo Santini," replied the grand duke, referring to his notes. For a moment Alacia was so astounded that she was unable to reply.

"Are you sure?" she asked at length. "The only Alfredo Santini I know of is a gigolo."

"Well, this Santini is not altogether that, I believe," he answered. "He may dance as well, but he has driven professionally. And Alaciska, I may be wrong, but I believe his reputation on the race track is not quite—well perhaps I am unfair. Certainly nothing has ever been proved against him. But I was surprised when Madame ordered the racing car turned over to him to be broken in!"

"What?" the girl exclaimed incrediuously, "the car has actually been given to him?" She was on her feet now, a vague disturbance which had long been dormant in her mind, forcing itself unpleasantly to surface, while the grand duke's reply unconsciously confirmed her fears.

"I should not have said that," Valdy was saying regretfully, "because he seems to be a great friend to your mother."

"Oh!" said she, determined not to betray her distress. "Well, after all, he may be an excellent driver."

"He's a clever driver!" the grand duke reassured her, "One of the very most clever."

"I'm glad to hear it!" she smiled at him, outwardly calm again, "because the Grand Prix de Monaco is the most vital test a car can be given. Driving those twisting streets and terrific grades at high speed is a very different matter from ordinary autodrome racing! It shows up what's in the driver as well as what the car is made of. We'll need the very best man we can get. And now Valdy, be a dear and get to work on those paragraphs about the car for the Siamese coronation!"

The front hall of the house in the Avenue du Bois was warm and scented with an aroma of fresh roses, cigarette smoke and wood fires when Alacia let herself in with a latchkey about five o'clock that afternoon. The day had proven a vague, detached affair, during which she had mechanically filled a luncheon engagement at the Ritz, sitting silently while the women discussed the summer openings of the fashionable dressmakers, and got into heated disputes over their respective merits. But it had not been Alacia's intention to be rude: it was merely that her mind had been elsewhere, focussed intently towards the moment when she would be free to deal with more important topics. And now that moment was at hand. From the little salon on the right of the hall came the sounds of a gramophone playing a popular tango and a manservant with a tray bearing cocktails was approaching. Alacia stopped him.

"Are there any messages or letters for me?" she asked eagerly.

"I think not, Mademoiselle!" replied the servant.

"Well," Alacia thought to herself, "perhaps it really is too soon to expect to hear from him!" Then she preceded the servant into a smoky, flowery little room where her mother, clad in satin pyjamas of vermillion and violet, was dancing with Santini. The couple moved languidly to the soft strains of the Argentina, the young man's dark face leaning tenderly over the painted mask of the older woman. Even the most precious of cosmetics could not make Mrs. Sayers beautiful, although skilled surgeons had done their best to give her a semblance of youth which her naturaly thick figure belied. But she danced with surprising grace, her eyes fixed upon the dark young face above her with an expression which smote Alacia's heart with fear. At the sound of her entrance the dancers broke apart, and Santini, casting a swift look of dislike in Alacia's direction, strolled to a taboret and helped himself to a cigarette. Mrs. Sayers gave a rather embarrassed laugh, and help up a carefully enamelled cheek to be kissed.

"Well dear, I guess this is really good morning!" she said a trifle nervously. "Alfredo came early, but I expect the Smedleys at any moment. Better order tea, now!"

Alacia nodded to the servant and flung her beret and gloves onto the enarest piece of furniture, trying to control her indignation at the way Santini lounged back in his chair and helped himself to drinks without asking permission. It was as if he owned the house, she thought furiously. Very likely he was planning exactly that. How long had this been going on, anyhow, and why had she not realized it sooner? Perhaps because her mother had always behaved so sensibly, holding the reins of the great factory so coolly and firmly in her strong, common hands. During the ten years since Daniel Sayers' death, his widow had never so much as looked at another man except to regard him as a useful cog in the great machine which turned out her millions. And now this slim dark, unknown young man had come along and was in the skilled process of making a fool of her mother! He couldn't possibly be genuinely in love with her, for there was about Mrs. Sayers none of the late-lingering charm which women who have always commanded love so often carry into old age. No one, not even the decent simple Daniel Sayers could ever have offered Kate Sayers romantic love in its more flowery phases. Suddenly it struck Alacia that this did not mean that her mother was incapable of romantic love. Perhaps the very novelty of having sweet nothings poured into her unaccustomed ear had been enough to inspire a real and consequently very dangerous emotion. Alacia wondered for the first time if her mother had been desperately lonely—perhaps always? No young man in America would have offered the middle-aged woman this kind of devotion; this giving every hour of the day to her amusement, dancing when she wished to dance, driving, lunching, escorting her here and there, always attentive and polite, considerate and deliberately charming. It was a foreign product, this trade of gigolo, and its success lay in the fact that its clients so seldom realized that it was a purely professional employment. Pity for her mother's loneliness struggled with indignation in Alacia's mind, and gave her courage to speak at once.

WEEKLY SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

The Christian and World Peace

Text: Ps. 72:9-16; Eph. 2:13-19
The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for Nov. 6.

BY WM. E. GILROY, D. D.
Editor of The Congregationalist

The contrast between the glorious proclamation of the vision and ideal of world peace by the prophets of ancient Israel, and the vast sums which nations in this twentieth century are still paying for the maintenance of armies and navies, and for the most destructive engines of war ever known in all history, would seem to suggest that progress and the realization of the ideal are very slow. It would be a satisfaction if we could hope that its sure progress is very real after all.

The problem of peace today is a world problem in a sense in which it never was before. The whole world is a vast neighborhood, where relatively small things may engender very serious family quarrels.

The chances and opportunities for war are always 100 to 1 in comparison with former periods of the world's history, so that it may on the whole be a great gain that these chances do not all materialize, that the world is really making some effort to displace warlike counsels and attempted settlements of disputes in warlike ways by methods of conference and peace.

Fear still plays a large part, and prejudices die hard, but it may be that all the time we are laying the groundwork of peaceful achievements that will bear large fruit.

It is in this hope that we should study such lessons as this, for it is in the Sunday schools and the day schools of the land that the great foundation work of peace must be done.

If we can fill the minds of the coming generation with the thoughts of peace, and the eyes of the young with the visions of peace, rest assured that we shall see in days to come a crop of peaceful attitudes and actions.

So it is that we should exploit the great peace visions of the Bible—the glowing prophecies of the Old Testament, the spirit of Abraham in his attitude toward the quarrel between his herdsmen and those of his brother-in-law, Lot. But even more important than this prophetic vision is its fulfillment in the New Testament emphasis upon brotherly love as the only logical fruit of God's fatherhood and his gracious attitude toward his children.

The spirit of Christianity and the spirit of war are inevitably in conflict. No matter how much the use of violence may be justifed upon some outward ground of necessity or the impossibility of adopting some other effective method, Christianity in all its ideals and teachings has in mind the aim of substituting love and peace for war and conflict, either between individuals or between nations.

Our lesson emphasizes the fact, especially in Paul's teaching to the Ephesians, that peaceful attitudes in the world have their logical and true foundation in peace in the individual life.

If men have not love in their hearts, how can they have love in their associations?

If there be not peaceful purposes, how can there be peaceful results?

A world of peaceful men would soon be a world of peaceful nations. In the great movement for peace none of us is left out. The individual Christian has its responsibility quite as much as the great statesman.

Politicians may make wars, but it is peoples alone who can create in the world a deep and permanent peace.

Luncheon Held By Woman's Club

BUENA PARK, Nov. 5.—The public potluck luncheons held by the Woman's club each month are proving popular. A business session and study period followed the noon luncheon yesterday. "Good Earth" was the subject of a review during the study period, many phases of China being brought out.

At the business session it was decided that members of the Woman's club would have charge of the cutting room at the Congregational church where the Red Cross cloth is being distributed, on the second and fourth Fridays of each month until distribution is completed. Mrs. O. E. Pike and Mrs. R. Loughbore gave reports on the county meeting held in Placentia. Mrs. Frances Hoops was introduced as a new member of the club. FUN FOR THE WHOLE FAMILY

THE TINYMITES

STORY by HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES by KING

The chickens that were tossed right in the chicken crate set up a din. They cackled and they crowed until the farmer cried, "Hey, boys!

"You're starting now to pant and puff. I think that you have caught enough fine chickens to fill up the crate. Just listen to their noise!"

The crate top then was put on tight and everything seemed quite all right, until the horse began to neigh. "Hey, stop it!" Scouty cried.

"The farmer's fed you straw and hay, so you must help him out today. You're going to take wee Duncy and the chickens on a ride."

This seemed to calm the horse a bit. It said, "All right! I'm feeling fit. Just tell me where we're bound and I'll sail up in the air.

"I'll gladly help the farmer out, if I know what it's all about. To do a favor in return for his seems only fair."

By this time Duncy was all set and he exclaimed, "Come on, let's get away upon this little trip. The thought fills me with cheer.

"The farmer's told me where to go and I can find the place, I know. It's by a little red schoolhouse that's 'bout a mile from here."

Then, up into the air they flew. The flying horse and Duncy knew that they both would enjoy the trip and nothing would go wrong.

However, when up in the air, there came a very sudden scare and Duncy found that the crate top wasn't very strong.

The chickens in the wooden crate apparently just couldn't wait until they reached their destination. Out the whole bunch flew.

"'Tis well we're not high off the ground," cried Duncy. "They can flap around until they all land safely. Gee! What are we going to do?"

B. Z. McKINNEY TO GIVE FINAL RADIO ADDRESS

In what probably will be his final statement of the campaign, B. Z. McKinney, Democratic candidate for congress, will point the necessity of high tariff protection to farmers and oil workers, in a radio speech over station KREG. His talk will start at 7 p. m.

B.Z. McKINNEY

That the oil industry has been overlooked in tariff legislation and that he will stand for a tariff of 85 cents to $1 per barrel, is a declaration to be made by the Democratic candidate, it is said.

McKinney will sum up issues of the campaign, dealing with his stand for prohibition in all sections of the district alike; his espousal of the veterans' cause against the program of the National Economy league, that would take away compensation and disability allowance, and other vital policies that he introduced into the campaign.

LOS ANGELES STUDENTS WIN SCHOOL DEBATE

Wilmer Hammond and James Fischgrund, representing Los Angeles Polytechnic High school and upholding the negative side of the question, were awarded a 2 to 1 decision over Robert Tannenbaum and Harold Woodard of Santa Ana High school in a league debate here last night on the question, "Resolved: That It Would be to the Best Interests of the American People that Roosevelt be Placed in Power in the Coming Election."

Judges for the contest were Miss Elizabeth Gilliland, speech department of Occidental college; B. D. Scott, head of the speech department, Pomona college; and J. M. Bacous, debate coach at Redlands University. Phillip Hood and Frank Ronsholdt of Santa Ana served as time-keepers. Junior Dunn was chairman.

Tannenbaum greatly impressed the audience with a strong rebuttal which many thought would be the turning point in the debate, but the Los Angeles team had brought out too many points in its reasoning on the negative side of the question, according to the judges.

One of the junior college quartets—Walter Workman, Paul Allen, Stanley Essert and Laurence Ridenour—accompanied by Earl Motley on the piano, offered two vocal selections on a musical program which preceded the debate.

Clifford Royston and Walter Kring of the Santa Ana High school, upholding the negative side of the question, lost by a 2 to 1 decision to Los Angeles' affirmative team at Los Angeles last night.

SHERMAN INDIANS TO GIVE PROGRAM

Indians from the Sherman Institute will present the program tomorrow night at the School of World Friendship being conducted at the First Baptist Church.

Many phases of the life of the American Indian are being discussed in classes for Young Peoples Groups, and Adults during the six Sunday evenings to be devoted to the study of Our Original Americans. Classes meet at six o'clock followed at the usual hour of worship by a popular program.

The Program for Sunday Evening is expected to be a specially interesting one. It is to be presented by Rev. Floyd O. Burnett, director of Religious Education at Sherman Institute, assisted by a number of students from that school. A varied program has been arranged consisting of musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental by Indian students—an address, The Indian, His Nobleness and Achievements by Rev. Floyd O. Burnett and a Round Table Discussion led by Indian students of senior high school age.

Parachute Jumper At Airport Sunday

Chauncey Litton, midget parachute jumper will give an exhibition tomorrow afternoon at Eddie Martin's Airport. He is scheduled to make his jump at 3:30 p. m. He will demonstrate his "falling leaf jump."

Litton, an old motion picture parachute jumper, is well known at airports on the west coast. He will gain an altitude of 5000 feet and make a free fall of 2000 feet before he opens his parachute and will attempt to land immediately in front of the spectators.

Announce Sale Of Fruit Stand

Dan Muskoph has purchased the fruit and vegetable stand in the center of the Grand Central market, it was announced today. The stand is now called the Sanitary Fruit and Vegetable stand, while it was named the Central stand while owned by William Hendrickson, from whom it was purchased. Muskopf announced that he would continue to handle the same high quality of merchandise and give the same service that has characterized the stand in the past.

POLICE FORCED TO RELEASE WOMAN WANTED THREE YEARS

In 1929, the sheriff's office started looking for a woman, wanted here for grand theft, in connection with the alleged theft of a fur coat.

Yesterday, three years later, that woman was arrested in Jersey City New Jersey.

She is Bessie Pohnman, who with Fannie Singer, both of New York, is alleged to have robbed the Golden West Fur Farm here of a coat worth $750. The Singer woman was arrested a few days later, the coat was recovered and the woman sent to San Quentin, where she is serving her term on a grand theft conviction.

But the Pohlman woman escaped. Circulars went out over the entire country. Yesterday one of them took effect. A telegram was received here today from the Jersey City police, stating the Pohlman woman was under arrest.

But it's too late now for the law. The statue of limitations has run out. There is nothing that can be done but inform the Jersey City police that she is not wanted now. This was done.

S. A. MINISTER TO INTRODUCE RABBI MAGNIN

Rabbi Edgar F. Magnin, who will speak on the national welfare and relief mobilization program at the high school auditorium Monday night will be introduced by the Rev. Harry Owings, pastor of the First Baptist church. There will be short talks by W. J. Tway, president of the Community Chest of Santa Ana, and other prominent civic and community leaders. J. F. Burke will preside.

"So far as human service and community felfare is concerned this meeting at 7:30 o'clock on Monday evening will without doubt be one of the most important of the year," Tway said today. "It places Santa Ana immediately in the national scheme of things and brings to us an opportunity to hear a nationally known speaker of great ability."

The sponsoring committee has again asked that every adult citizen who possibly can do so, set aside the evening to attend the gathering.

Arrangements have been so made as to permit attendance without any charge at all. The program will start promptly at 7:30 and will close at an early hour. The program will include a few musical numbers and short talks, but in the main will be given over to the address of the Los Angeles rabbi, it is said.

"With 2500 people having to be fed through the Citizens' Unemployment Relief community and unemployment association here during October alone, the Salvation Army caring for a constantly larger number of single men and all other recognized social agencies of the city taking on additional loads in order to see our own neighbors through, it at once becomes evident that we are facing a most serious condition and one which forms a part of the great national picture which Rabbi Magnin will discuss," Tway said.

"While the meeting Monday is not strictly a Community Chest affair, still it is fortunate that it comes at this time, for the intensive welfare and relief appeal is about drawing to a close even though we are faced with a shortage of around $19,000 in the total fund raised as against the minimum goal necessary."

HARWOOD SPEAKS AT NEWPORT MEET

Stressing the importance of electing men to the state legislature who are well qualified to serve the state and this particular district, Frank R. Harwood, Democratic nominee for the state assembly, spoke last night at a meeting of the Progressive Republican Roosevelt-Garner club at Newport Beach.

He declared he was entirely out of accord with the present extravagant administration at Sacramento and said the state would have to readjust the budget to comply with the times. He stated he was in favor of present veterans legislation as on the statute books of the state. He took a direct stand against the Matoon act and also asserted he would not support any Sharkey bills or loan shark measures.

Harwood declared it was a time for a complete change in government administration from big business interests to the cause of the common people, to which he said he belonged.

WOMEN BADLY INJURED WHEN GAS EXPLODES

Two women were severly burned yesterday afternoon when gasoline they were using to clean clothes exploded.

Susan Weimer, 20, Orange county hospital student nurse, and her mother, Mrs. Bert T. Gothard, of 1709 North Flower street both were rushed to the county hospital where they were treated for first degree burns. Miss Weimer remained as a patient in the hospital and Mrs. Gothard was able to go to her home after receiving treatment.

Both were burned about the arms and legs, hospital attendants stated.

Flames following the explosion also set fire to the garage causing a damage of approximately $25. The Santa Ana fire department extinguished the fire.

Chief John Luxembourger of the fire department declared the flames were started from a burning hot water heater near where the women were working, the fumes coming in contact with the flame under the heater.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Nov. 5.—(UP)—Moderate gains recorded in the stock market today after yesterday's recovery left the list just about where it was at the close a week ago.

A brief period of selling appeared when the weekly car loadings report was published, but the decline did not carry far and a new rally set in before the close. Volume, however, was small.

Car loadings for the week October 29 totaled 617,642 cars, a decline of 24,531 cars from the preceding week.

In addition to the car loadings which were not bullish there were several other items that could be interpreted as adverse to a forward movement in the market.

McDuffie, as Receiver of Richfield Oil Company of California in the total stated amount of $17,505,950.42, as described in the proof of claim, which is attached to said petition marked Exhibit "1" and made a part thereof for all purposes as if therein set forth at length, and praying that a hearing be had with respect to such instructions and the allowance, approval and confirmation of such compromise, by this Court.

NOW, THEREFORE, good cause appearing therefor, IT IS ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that a hearing on the instructions by this Court to William C. (a) That the Receiver of Richfield Oil Company of California shall pay to Pan American Petroleum Company and to William C. (b) That unsecured claims in favor of Pan American Petroleum Company against Richfield Oil Company of California, in receivership, (exclusive of matters connected with tankers referred to in (c) below), shall be allowed, approved and confirmed, in the sum of Thirteen Million Dollars ($13,000,000.00); and

(c) That title to the oil tankers Pat Doheny and Larry Doheny be deemed vested in Richfield Oil Company of California, Pan American Petroleum Company and its Receiver relinquishing all claims to any right, title or interest therein or thereto, and that in connection with such tanker transactions there shall be added to the unsecured claim of Pan American Petroleum Company against Richfield Oil Company of California, and allowed, approved and confirmed, the sum of One Million Three Hundred Ninety-two Thousand and Six Hundred Six and 30/100 Dollars ($1,392,606.30). Said amount so approved, allowed and confirmed, together with item (b) above, making the total of Fourteen Million Three Hundred Ninety-Two Thousand Six Hundred Six and 30/100 Dollars ($14,-392,606.30) of unsecured approved, allowed and confirmed claims of said claimant, William C. McDuffie, as Receiver of Richfield Oil Company of California, to make such compromise of said proof of claim filed by William C. McDuffie, as Receiver of Pan American Petroleum Company, appear at said time and place referred to hereinabove, and upon the hearing with respect to said instructions and the allowance, approval and confirmation of such compromise and the proof of claim thus compromised, then and there to show cause why said compromise and the proof of claim as so compromised should not be allowed, approved and confirmed by order of this court.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED, ADJUDGED and DECREED that public notice of this order be given by the posting of a copy hereof on or before November 5, 1932, in three public places in the City of Los Angeles, namely, the Court Street entrance of the Hall of Justice, the Main Street entrance of the City Hall, and the Broadway entrance of the Los Angeles County Courthouse, and on or before November 5, 1932, by publication in each of the following cities, to-wit: Los Angeles, Pasadena, Glendale, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Ventura, Santa Barbara, Bakersfield, San Bernardino, Riverside, Santa Ana, El Centro, San Diego and San Francisco, all in the State of California; and in Portland, Oregon; Seattle, and Spokane, Washington; Phoenix, Arizona; New York City, New York; and that such publication in each of said cities be made by one insertion in a newspaper of general circulation printed and published in such city respectively.

THE BOARD OF STRATEGY AND THE INDIVIDUAL VOTER

The Fullerton News-Tribune the other night carried an editorial attacking the Board of Strategy for its endorsement of Mr. McKinney, its failure to endorse Mr. Collins, and particularly making strictures upon the statement of the Board of Strategy for its comments upon Mr. Charles C. Chapman, of Fullerton.

Mr. Chapman has recently endorsed Mr. Sam Collins, and the statement of the Secretary of the Board of Strategy, as we recall, endeavored to offset the influence that Mr. Chapman's commendation might have. We have great admiration for Charles C. Chapman—his unblemished record of many years as an outstanding Christian man, as a philanthropist, and one who is deeply interested in all character-building agencies and educational institutions, has made him one of the great outstanding characters of this generation in California. He is a man of remarkable mental acumen, moral discernment, and great public spirit.

The Board of Strategy officiates as the watch-dog of prohibition. It is characterized by singleness of purpose. Its endorsements are recommendations only. In effect, it says to the electorate that it has found after investigating the public record, and somewhat the private life of the candidates, which one it believes to be best fitted for and most conscientiously interested in the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment, and its retention in the Constitution. So it recommends to the rest of us how to vote if and when we too hold that issue paramount above all others.

It has happened in our own case that there have been times when a candidate's attitude upon some other question has been allowed to govern our vote. It happens with other "drys." The casting of one's ballot or one's endorsement of a candidate in such a way may reflect on one's devotion to the "dry" cause, but it scarcely stamps an individual as a black sheep when all standards for citizenship are applied. Even though we might support a candidate whom the Board of Strategy did not endorse we would not feel like condemning them for we might be remiss ourselves in our devotion to the prohibition because of our over-anxiety for the candidate.

A PROPHECY PROVED OUT

One of the greatest thrills that comes to a man is when a prophecy which he makes comes true, or his judgment upon a matter is approved when all the facts are in. Such a thrill must have come to William J. Wyman, a Patent Office examiner, recently, when he looked over his list of "the ten greatest inventions of our time," which he selected in 1913.

In that year the Scientific American held a contest, open to the world, to determine what inventions made during the past 25 years, were of the most commercial importance. Mr. Wyman has just written an article for a magazine wherein he reviews his choices and takes stock of his selections.

Just a glance at the list he chose reveals the tremendous contribution inventors have given the world. His list included the electric furnace, the steam turbine, the automobile, moving pictures, the airplane, wireless communication, the cyanide process, the induction motor of Tesla, the linotype machine, and the electric welding process of Thomson.

Mr. Wyman's judgment has certainly been vindicated. He declares that now he would substitute the electron or vacuum tube for the out-of-date cyanide process; otherwise his original list would qualify. This invention, which he would substitute for the cyanide process, was well known in 1913, but none recognized the tremendous part which it was due to play in the control of many industrial processes.

We have grown accustomed to the number of improvements and inventions which yearly come forth. No longer are we amazed at the strides taken by technical progress. We now have organized departments of research, and from these come forth so many new discoveries that we may perhaps be pardoned for really not appreciating them, and the unknown men working in the laboratories who are making these wonderful contributions. But spectacularly, or without pomp and ceremony, "the world do move."

A HELPFUL SUGGESTION

Word has come from an Illinois town of a fine method for meeting one of the stringencies of the hour. A school teacher, her heart filled with concern for children, has written to her sister here in Santa Ana of a plan for feeding the needy children, which has worked so splendidly in her community, that she hopes that it will serve to meet a need elsewhere. Each child who comes from a home where there is sufficient food, takes home to lunch each day a child from another home where there is not enough, and where that child might not even be saved from suffering because of hunger.

There has already been organized effort to care for the unfortunate children in most of the communities in Orange county, but the thought of this plan from Illinois may inspire some mothers to extend the hospitality of their homes to a playmate or two who are hungrier than their pride would permit them to reveal. It is a delicate situation, but hospitality will serve to disguise charity in the performance of a real service to children.

One must have an understanding heart in order to help in this way. Hunger is so remote from the lives of most people that they don't think of it as existing; can hardly believe it when they are informed that it does exist in specific cases. A little snob of a boy in one of the current novels is confronted with a wan who has been stealing because he was hungry, from the rich little boy's father. The latter asks his boy what he shall do with the other boy and the little snob says: "He doesn't look hungry." Looks were important to his feeling.

It takes understanding and a strong feeling of universal motherhood to be helpful in the way the Illinois teacher suggests, but none can measure the amount of good which can be done.

A WILL FINDS WAYS AND MEANS

Mr. Levy, who at the age of 14 was an errand boy in Australia, has just given an illustration of the truth contained in the famous lecture "Acres of Diamonds." By taking advantage of the opportunity at hand, he has purchased a lot of things which everybody else considered worthless, and has made a fortune out of this merchandise.

In 1927, Mr. Levy learned that the British government had about 250,000 army boots on hand, some of which were so large that there was no market for them, and thousands of them were for the same foot. This "plunger" remembered some of the things he had heard and read about, and bought the boots.

He recalled that many Russians and Afghans put rags around their feet in place of socks, and so he shipped the large boots to those countries. He then found out that the uppers of his products were the same for either foot. Without very much expenditure, he had the soles removed from half the boots and turned them over. Thus he had pairs, where before he had boots without mates.

He took yards of gaily colored ribbon intended for military decoration, made it into suspenders and reaped a handsome profit. He utilized the huge fur busbys worn on parade by certain regiments, by ripping them up and making bearskin rugs out of them, for five of them made a fine rug. His ingenuity has made of him another war profiteer. More power to him. A man like that can profit from peace, too.

There certainly is a great lesson in this man's achievements. Too many of us cast a hasty glance at a real opportunity, but the example furnished us here might well be retained in our brains for future reference.

The Torment of the Hunted

Pomona Progress-Bulletin

W. Kirby Robinson, who surrendered at Leavenworth penitentiary after being a successful fugitive from the law for 34 years, presents one of those odd puzzles in human behavior which seem almost beyond understanding.

Robinson is 65. Thirty-four years ago he robbed a postoffice in Indian Territory and got a four-year sentence in federal prison. He escaped from his guards en route to Leavenworth and got away "clean." Since then he has lived in the far west, a respected member of his community. No one dreamed he was an escaped convict. He was not in the slightest danger of capture.

But— "it's been haunting me," he explained when he surrendered. So he has gone back to serve his time, hoping in that way to lay the ghosts that have made his life uneasy for a third of a century.

A restless conscience can be a very difficult companion. All of us know that, in one degree or another. We may not have mail robberies on our minds, but we have lesser things, and they have power to torment us unmercifully. All too often they are things for which no possible redress can be made, things which can't be wiped off the books by any belated atonement. Even the best of men has certain dark chambers in his mind that he fears to open.

But that wasn't quite all of it, in this case. There was a twin demon to aid in the tormenting—the demon of fear. The man could never be quite sure that his past was really dead. The yellowed files of the federal government still carried his name. He could not be certain that a hand would not be laid on his shoulder, sooner or later. Any day might be his last day of freedom.

And a fear, an uncertainty, of this kind can be life's greatest torment. Most of us never exactly settle in our minds about the things we really want from life, but we do know, always, that we want a sense of security.

And He Could Have Had a Fresh California Egg!

San Bernardino Sun

An egg story from Forest Hill, Md., diverts attention momentarily from the campaign. There is really more interest, anyway, in eggs than in politics. Try it at the breakfast table, and see whether Ma and Dad and the kids, collectively, are more interested in last night's speeches or this morning's victuals.

Well, 17 years ago the name and address of Hazel Roe of Forest Hill was written on a fresh egg that was being packed for shipment. The other day Miss Roe, now Mrs. Malcolm Walker, received a letter from a man in Baltimore saying that he had just eaten the egg, and inquired when it was packed because "sometimes we buy eggs here as 'strictly fresh' that have been in cold storage a long time."

Poor, innocent consumer! It is not on record how he ate that egg, whether poached, fried, or scrambled. It makes a difference. But the important fact is that he ate it.

The incident arouses new admiration for the efficiency of modern cold storage, though there is something to be said, too, for the glowing tolerance of city stomachs.

Four Million Acres

Oakland Tribune

Who can vision four million acres of timber? It is the area of forest land burned in a single year in the United States. The Forest Service, reporting on the year 1930, gives out the figures, not as something new, for the destruction of timber and beauty comes regularly, but as a record of that which has taken place.

Government and States make laws. Guards are increased and lookouts posted. New equipment is ordered and even the airplane is called upon to do its part in discovering fires and rushing fighters to the scene. Four million acres were burned over and it is certain that, but for the efforts of the state and national agencies the area would be larger. Is there anything more we can do about it?

The records also show that the great percentage of losses is occasioned by human carelessness and neglect. Another great loss can be charged to incendiaries who, when captured, have been let off with slight punishment. It is to be wondered if we are to continue to burn four million acres of trees a year.

The Forgotten Man, Himself

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

GETTING WHAT WE WANT

When Shakespeare took his quill in hand
By no illusions was he haunted;
His every play was deftly planned
To give the public what they wanted.
If they were keen for wicked dukes,
With gory Richard he supplied them;
If they demanded shadowy spooks
Their wishes never were denied them.
Bill rarely ever wrote a show
That did not play to S. R. O.

Today, as in that olden time,
The earnest dramatists aspire
To give their patrons love or crime
Or anything they may desire.
They strive to stage dramatic treats
As did the gifted British poet;
Without abundant gate receipts
They cannot prosper, and they know it.
And yet they rarely waken thrills
As did that gripping stuff of Bill's.

The boys in the dramatic game
Are—some of them—extremely clever,
So possibly they're not to blame
If all their shows don't live forever.
They have to make their livelihood,
And if, for season after season,
Their offerings are not so good,
It's possible that WE'RE the reason.
If William were alive today
He might not sell a single play.

IF INSECTS CAN THINK, MAYBE THE MOSQUITO THINKS THAT SLAPPING SOUND IS AN ENCORE.

The fact that Mr. Roosevelt doesn't make a living on his farm doesn't prove that he isn't a real farmer.

True, no man can remember all of the laws. But you needn't worry much if you observe the original Ten.

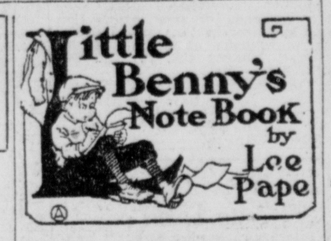

An orator is a man who feels a passionate urge to care for the needy if it takes your last dollar.

Little Benny's Note Book by Lee Pape

Ma was pushing crooked things strate and strate things crooked and pop was looking at the evening paper, saying to ma, Would you bleeve it possible that a high sissiety romance could of started many years ago when the bewtiful little dawter of a rich and prominent family used to sneek out in the back streets and make mud pies with the ragged little son of the nayborhood ragpicker and return to her palatial home day after day plastered with innocent mud?

I'd bleeve nothing of the sort, I dont know how the papers can have enough gullibility to print such stuff and bleeve it themselfs, ma said, and pop said, But the best is yet to come, or you mite say the werst. It seems that this little gerl grew up to be even more bewtiful and every bit as rich, and one day at a fashionable garden party she met a rich a handsome young banker and by gollies who does it tern out to be but the ragpicker's little boy grown up and onward, he said.

Really such truck is enough to irritate the patience of a saint, these newspapers seem to think their blind readers will swallow anything, ma said. In the ferst place does anybody suppose that a child such as that wouldn't have a nerse or a governess to keep her from wallowing in the mud with every Tom, Dick and ragpicker? And in the next place ragpickers children dont grow up and move freely in the very circles whose rags their fathers once picked, so the whole thing is a tissue of nonsense just to fill up space in the paper, she said.

But it's not in the paper, I didn't say it was in the paper, it's the plot of that moving picture we saw a few weeks ago, pop said, and ma said, O yes, I remember now, and it was a very good picture too, I injoyed it immensely.

You win, it's a wimmins world, pop said, And he got behind the sporting page and stayed there.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 14 Years Ago Today

November 5, 1918

A third call for the entrainment of men on or within five days after November 11, was received by the local exemption board. The call was for 14 men to be sent to Camp Lewis. The first call was for 18 men and the second for 73 men, both contingenth to be sent to Kelly Field, San Antonio, Tex. Luther Lawson, Edward B. Covington, William C. Stroschein, and John H. Trickey were among Santa Anans tentatively listed for the third call to Camp Lewis.

Wild rumors in Santa Ana regarding the supposed death (self-inflicted) of Madame Schumann-Heink, was definitely routed by a letter sent by Miss Dixie Perkins, well-known Santa Ana nurse, stationed at Camp Merritt in the east, nursing flu cases, and who described a concert she attended in New York at which "Madame Schumann-Heink, in the audience, rose and sang 'Star Spangled Banner' and 'When the Boys Come Marching Home,' and received a wonderful ovation."

THE MARKS OF LEADERSHIP

As a people we are about to approach the sacrament of choice of leadership in a national election.

It is proper that individually we withdraw into the quiet of our own counsel and meditate upon the things that go to make great leadership before we cast our ballots.

Here are some of the marks that James Truslow Adams thinks indicate great leadership:

(1) Definiteness of ideas.

The great leader has clear-cut ideas, related to a body of principles, and grounded in a philosophy of life, ideas that he holds firmly, is willing to sacrifice himself for, and which he thinks of in terms of the good of his fellows rather than the good of himself.

(2) Courage.

A great leader has not only honesty of purpose but a courageous steadfastness in holding to his purpose. He will not shift like a weather-cock with every wind of whim that blows across the popular mind. He will not sell his principles or betray his followers for thirty pieces of silver or assurance of reelection.

(3) Driving will power and strength of character.

The great leader masters the art of compromise without becoming a compromiser for comfort's sake. He will not only "want" to do the right thing, but he will "will" to do it. It need never be said of the great leader by way of excuse that he meant well. When the great leader means well he does well by grace of driving will power and unbreakable character.

(4) The power to work with other men.

The great leader is never a lone wolf. He takes his title of leader seriously and actually leads his associates and followers. He is not chronically at loggerheads with his colleagues or even with the opposition. He knows how to get results through the men around him.

(5) The warmth and glow of idealism.

The great leader sees day after tomorrow as well as today and feels the pull of the vision of an improved state of affairs, and communicates his vision to those around him.

Here are some of the qualities we must look for as we operate our political processes of nomination and election.

Our Children

NOT APPROVED

Ryan, the head of the school, scanned the report card before him with troubled eyes.

"Hm-m. Looks all right. Gets high marks in all his subjects. Has an A in conduct, too. Teacher thinks he ought to be promoted. Guess he ought to be. Very smart boy. But I don't like him.

"Not a very good reason for holding him back. He can do his work. No. I'll promote him. But I don't like him. I hate not to like a boy. Well here goes." "Old Ryan" dipped his pen and wrote across the face of the report card, "Promoted. T. R.". Then directly underneath that inscription he wrote, "Not approved. T. R."

That afternoon a very puzzled boy visited Ryan. "Mr. Ryan, you wrote unapproved on my card. How can you write that and still promote me? If I am fit to be promoted during the term don't you think I deserve your approval?"

"No, I don't. If I had thought so I'd have said so. I didn't think so and I said so. Sit down. I expected you."

"You see, Mr. Ryan, I have to show that card to my parents and they will want to know what it means and I'm sure I don't know. I think it very unfair of you. I think you are taking an unfair advantage of me. I think when I make good I deserve approval not a record like that on my card. And I'm certain my father will think so too."

"Are you?" said Ryan dryly. "I know your father well. I have a notion that he is going to agree with me. You see, Sampson, you are determined to get ahead, to be first always. That isn't a bad idea if you arrive without hurting or hindering anybody else. Winning the game is great but if you break the rules of the game to win you're a bounder and you won't be approved. That holds good inside school and out and there isn't any good of my trying to keep it a secret from you."

"I don't know what you mean. I worked overtime and did two terms in one. What's wrong about that?"

"Only this. You used two other boys to help you make the grade. You agreed to help them if they helped you. They did their share and more. You saw to that. Phelps did so much helping you that he had no time left to help himself. Phillips the same. You told them you couldn't find time to help them but you took care always to see that they helped you. If Phelps had not helped you with the algebra problems and trig, if Phillips had not helped you with French and German, you would never have made the grade. Yet you lay down on your agreement. You never lifted a finger to help either of them and before they knew it they were so far behind they couldn't catch up. You made the grade and they didn't. I promoted you but I didn't approve you. That's all."

I agree with Old Ryan. It is time we scanned the records and withheld approval of all those whose achievements have been made at the cost of other people. School is a good place to begin.

TODAY IS THE WORLD WAR ANNIVERSARY of ARMISTICE LOOMS

On November 5, 1918, Secretary of State Lansing notified the German government that the Allies were willing to arrange an armistice based upon President Wilson's principles, and that the terms could be obtained from Marshal Foch.

The German army started a retreat along the 75-mile front between the Aisne and the Scheldt. American troops crossed the Meuse at three points below Stenay.

Police troops seized Cracow.
